State Police Investigate $2 Million Club Fire Near Ellenville Area

By MATT SPIRENG

GREENFIELD PARK

State police BCI investigators continued an intensive probe today into a fire of undetermined and apparently suspicious origin that tore through the main building at the Pioneer Country Club in his southern Ulster County hamlet Wednesday.

The value of the four-story, 200-room structure leveled by the holocaust has been estimated at approximately $2 million.

Ellenville BCI investigators continued questioning employees of the resort in their attempt to piece together the facts of how the blaze began.

"We haven't determined anything on it yet," said Investigator Walter Hubert, one of several officers involved in the probe.

Reports that the fire may have been set and that small fires had been started in separate portions of the building are being checked, investigators indicated. They denied, however, any certain knowledge that there were separate fires.

Ironically, on the day the fire broke out,

Town of Wawarsing officials were compiling data on health and building code violations at the resort, in a move toward closing down the country club.

Building Inspector Donald McKulik told the Freeman today that he was "right in the middle" of writing a report on the resort when he heard of the fire. McKulik said the township was prepared to begin litigation to have the Pioneer Country Club shut down until violations were corrected.

The owner of the country club has been identified as Leo Gartenberg.

Nearly 200 firemen from seven Sullivan and Ulster County fire departments fought the raging blaze throughout most of the day in an attempt to salvage at least part of the huge building.

But firefighters were hampered in their attempts by winds which fed the flames and by difficulties in getting water to pour on the building, according to Mountaintale Fire Chief Chester Kurtz.

There were no guests at the hotel when the blaze broke out shortly before 10 a.m., and no injuries were reported.

Fire companies at the scene in addition to Mountaintale were Fallsburgh, Woodbridge, Monticello, Woodbourne, Ellenville and Wurtsburo.

Meanwhile, fires of undetermined origin swept through a house on Route 52 in Cragmoor and an abandoned barn on Queen's Highway in the Town of Rochester Wednesday night.

Cragmoor firemen were called out to the house fire shortly before 7 p.m. The house, owned by the King family, was extensively involved on arrival of the department, according to Fire Chief Ralph Stedner. No one was home when the blaze broke out, firemen said. The house was completely gutted.

An investigation has been launched into the cause of the fire in the abandoned barn in the Town of Rochester, according to Accord Fire Chief Lowell Baker. The building was completely leveled by flames which broke out shortly before midnight.

Simon as New Treasury Secretary:

Inflation Top Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The country's high inflation rate will replace the energy crisis as the number one challenge for William E. Simon, President Nixon's choice as his fourth secretary of the Treasury.

Nixon named the 46-year-old millionaire and former Wall Street investment banker to succeed economist George P. Shultz, who steps down in May after nearly two years at the Treasury Department helm.

Simon has served since December as head of the Federal Energy Office. The White House said he will be succeeded as energy administrator by his deputy, John C. Sawhill, 37.

Simon's appointment as Treasury secretary is expected to touch off a struggle among Nixon's economic advisors to gain a portion of the considerable influence over economic policy-making held by Shultz. Nixon said he would take a more active hand himself in economic planning and will head the important Council on Economic Policy, a post previously held by Shultz.

Other positions held by Shultz that will not go to Simon include assistant to the President for domestic and international economic policy, which will remain unfilled for the time being, and chairman of the Cost of Living Council, a position of declining influence that will be filled on an interim basis by council director John T. Dunlop.

Sources say that Simon will face a difficult challenge in the international policy-making arena from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who Monday showed his interest in this field in an important statement on U.S. foreign economic policy delivered to the United Nations in New York.

But Simon is said by aides to feel the major problem facing him as Treasury secretary will be the country's worsening inflation rate, which saw consumer prices rise 8.8 per cent last year, and at a 12 per cent rate during the first two months of this year.

Simon is said to generally support the approach to inflation followed by Shultz, including steps to increase agricultural supplies combined with conservative spending and money supply policies.

Like Shultz, Simon is cool to economic controls.

State energy czar warns on gas supplies . . . story page 4.

Simon likely will give additional details on his thinking on ways of combatting inflation when he appears before the Senate Finance Committee for confirmation hearings, expected early next week.

Simon as the federal government's energy chief demonstrated a fast-paced style, moving to decisions quickly and urging steps designed to tackle short-range problems.

Now Simon, nominated Wednesday to be secretary of the Treasury, brings his ability for decisiveness, along with a brash manner and flexible ideology, to the Nixon administration's inner circle of conservative economic advisors.

In four months as head of the Federal Energy Office, Simon hunted gasoline supplies around, clashed with governors and the Pentagon on fuel allocations and ordered setting up of a gasoline rationing program at the cost of $12 million.

Simon and another key economic advisor, Roy Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, were involved in a well-publicized dispute after Ash told reporters that he believed the energy crisis would be only a short-term problem.

Simon made himself unpopular at the State Department when he called the Shah of Iran "irresponsible and reckless" after the Shah said the United States was importing as much oil during the oil embargo as it was before the cutoff.

Simon's temper also found targets within the energy office, with few of his subordinates managing to escape a tongue-lashing.

Colson Requests Subpoena For White House Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Subpoenas to produce White House tapes are coming at President Nixon from all directions — the latest from Charles Colson, one of the defendants in the Watergate cover-up case.

Colson, a former presidential aide indicted March 1 in the Watergate cover-up along with seven other ex-White House and Nixon re-election officials, asked Wednesday that a subpoena be issued for certain tapes and materials before his scheduled Sept. 9 trial.

The request, made in a two-paragraph motion filed with a U.S. District Court, also asked that Colson's lawyers be allowed to inspect the materials.

The action followed by one day a request for a similar subpoena by Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Jaworski filed a lengthy affidavit Tuesday seeking the access to tapes and other documents involving 64 meetings and telephone conversations between Nixon and several former top aides from June 20, 1972 to June 4, 1973.

Colson's lawyer, Sidney Dickstein, said his grounds for seeking the subpoena were the same as the special prosecutor's.

In his affidavit, Jaworski said he was seeking the subpoena "solely for the purpose of preventing any postponement of the trial or delay during the conduct of the trial."

Colson is presumably seeking the evidence to help prepare his defense.

Jaworski asked the court to order the White House to answer the subpoena by 10 a.m. EDT April 23.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, is expected to act on Jaworski's request when he returns from vacation on May 1.

Material dealing with a number of conversations between Nixon and Colson were among those sought by Jaworski. Several of those talks occurred in January and February last year — about the time, according to former White House Counsel John W. Dean III, there were discussions at the White House concerning possible executive clemency for the original bugging conspirators.

The proposed subpoena also requests evidence involving three conversations Nixon had with Colson on June 20, 1972, just three days after the Watergate bugging arrests, and one on March 21, 1973, the day Nixon has said he first learned the full facts of the cover-up.

It could lead to their disbarment in New York State, according to John G. Bonomi, the association's chief counsel.

The probe is part of a nationwide investigation by bar associations into all lawyers allegedly linked to the Watergate scandal and related matters, Bonomi said.

Information for the probes has come from Special Prosecutor Jaworski and the Senate Watergate Committee, Bonomi said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

Details were dispersed to state and local bar associations through the Special Committee on Coordination of Watergate Discipline of the National Organization of Bar Counsel, an affiliate of the American Bar Association, said Bonomi. He is chairman of the committee.

Also involved in the city probe are Gordon Strachan, a former aide to H.R. Haldeman; David R. Young, former co-director of the White House "plumbers" unit; and an unidentified lawyer, all licensed to practice in New York, Bonomi said.

The Associated Press reported the City Bar Association is probing allegations of professional misconduct against President Nixon and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Birch Creek Developer Promises Ecology Study

By LYNN MULVANEY

PINE HILL

The proposed discharge of 78,000 gallons of treated sewage daily into the Birch Creek at Pine Hill "may be beneficial to the fish population," according to Peter Goertzel of Swift Camping, Inc., whose proposed 200-unit housing complex would provide the sewage.

"Lots of mountain streams are almost sterile with regard to nutrients," Goertzel said, adding that the treated sewage might enhance rather than be a detriment to the ecology.

The Town of Shandaken developer said he is having an ecology study by a fish biologist who is coming to the site Friday to take readings and report preliminary findings.

"I'm not an ecologist," Goertzel said, "but I have been led to believe the matter of pollution of the Birch Creek at Pine Hill is an open issue at this point."

Earlier this week Ulster County Legislator Clifford W. Snyder (R-Dist. 1), an avid fisherman and conservationist, was sharply critical of Goertzel's plans, contending the dumping of the treated sewage into Birch Creek, a tributary of the Esopus Creek would "change the temperature and character of the stream in such a way as to make it impossible for trout survival."

Goertzel maintained Wednesday that ecologists "tend to automatically oppose" the dumping of treated sewage into streams and he will therefore "make a serious and concerted effort to see if their objections are valid."

Referring to a public hearing to be called by the State Department of Environmental Conservation on Goertzel's application for a permit to discharge the sewage, the developer suggested that at that time "a lot will come to light" with regard to his proposal.

Meanwhile DEC's Division of Pure Waters is accepting written applications from interested persons who wish to comment.

William L. Garvey, chief of the Permit Section said that the written applications must be received by the department by April 22. Written comments will be retained and will be given consideration before a final determination is made. They may be sent to the Department of Environmental Conservation, Room 300, 50 Wolf Road, Albany.

Snyder said he plans to ask the Ulster County Legislature at its May meeting to express its opposition to the dumping of the sewage.

Meanwhile, the Ulster County Health Department is reviewing the application with regard to stream classification and will forward its findings to DEC.

Snyder's past concern for stream intrusion in Schoharie Creek, which flows into Ulster County, generated a storm of opposition to a 150-unit condominium townhouse development which was denied permission to dump its effluent.

The present battle against the Birch Creek discharge is also being waged on still another front by Trout Unlimited who has reportedly retained counsel to fight it.

Wider Split in Esopus Board Threatened

Two Resign Police Posts

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN

Esopus police chief Robert Emberson and constable Harry Van Vliet submitted their resignations Wednesday, in a move that threatens further division between two warring factions of the Esopus Town Board.

Emberson, a six-year veteran of the town police force, declined to comment specifically on his resignation, saying only, "No police department should become a political mockery."

Van Vliet suggested that the town board has "interfered" with activities of the police department.

The dispute, however, appears to center around the reluctance of at least some members of the town board to appoint a full-time police commission that would supervise and direct the activities of the police department.

Councilmen Frank Bell and Thomas Johnson have urged the appointment of a full-time commission. Councilmen John Bowman and George Villiell, along with Supervisor George Freer — all of whom are members of a "temporary police commission" — have declined to appoint a full-time commission.

"A permanent Esopus police commission should be appointed," said Van Vliet, in a statement released today, "not a never-ending temporary commission. If the town board does not face reality, and if this is not accomplished last month by Bell, Johnson and Villiell was 'illegal,'" and that the supervisor remains the legal head of the police force.

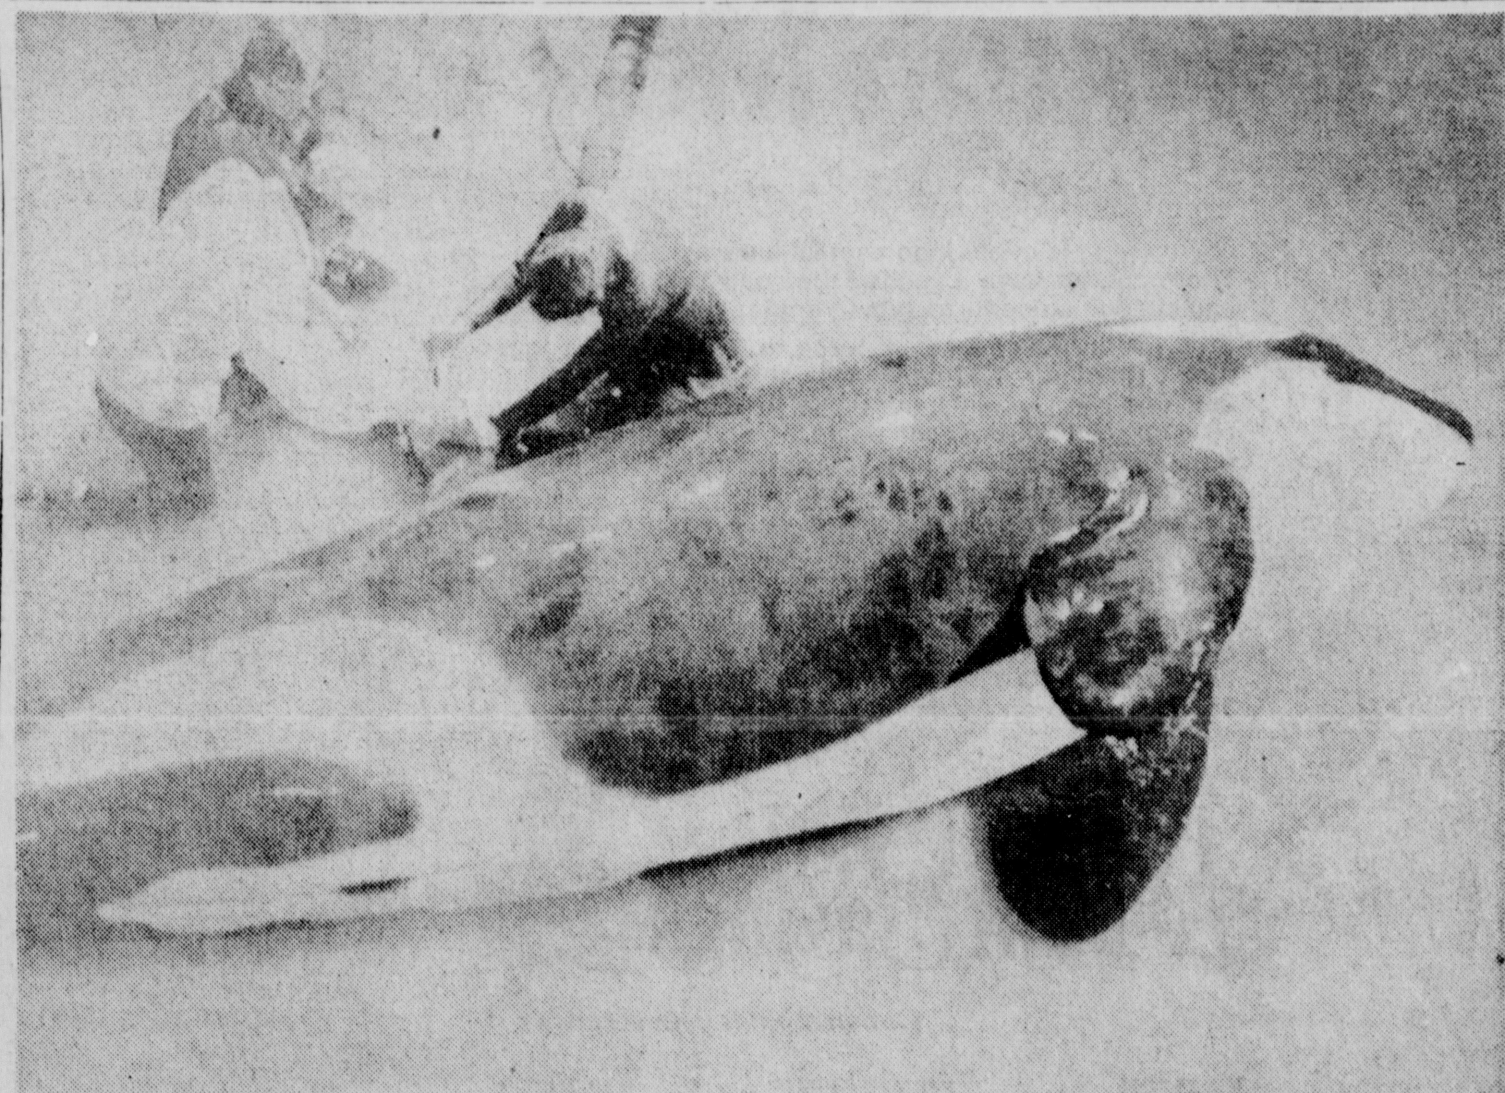

Both Bell and Johnson have urged Emberson and Van Vliet to "reconsider" their decision. In the meantime, the Esopus police department remains two men short.

Bell said the temporary police commission was appointed to serve a term of 90 days; he claims the 90-day period has expired, and that a full-time commission should be named. He charged that, in the meantime, the temporary commission has usurped the power of the police chief.

Bowman, however, told the Freeman today that the town doesn't have a full-time police force, so it can't have a full-time chief of police. He said Emberson's appointment last month by Bell, Johnson and Villiell was "illegal," and that the supervisor remains the legal head of the police force.

Both Bell and Johnson have urged Emberson and Van Vliet to "reconsider" their decision. In the meantime, the Esopus police department remains two men short.

'Local Voice' on Stewart Favored

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Assembly has voted to give local residents a voice in the development of the former Stewart Air Force Base near Newburgh into a jetport.

The bill passed Wednesday would include representatives of Orange, Rockland, Putnam and Dutchess counties on the board of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, the developer of the jetport.

These representatives, one from each county, would be appointed by the governor. There would be no requirement that the governor consult with local officials.

The measure expands the MTA board from 10 to 17 members and spells out the areas to be represented by board members. New York City would have seven members on the board, instead of three, and two board members each would be appointed from Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester counties. Other bills passed in the legislature during the day included those that would:

- Permit prisoners in state institutions to make license plates for the U.S. government or other states. Sen. Ralph Marino of Nassau County said the state owns expensive equipment at Auburn Prison that is used efficiently only one year out of five. The bill, earlier passed in the Assembly, was approved by the Senate and sent to the governor.
- Allow local governments to establish clinics for the desexing of dogs and cats. Passed in the Assembly and sent to the Senate.
- Authorize Boards of Cooperative Educational Services to contract with community colleges for the transportation of college students. The bill, passed earlier by the Assembly, was approved by the Senate and sent to the governor.
- Increase the fees for persons to appraise condemned property from $5 to $50. The bill, passed earlier in the Senate, was approved in the Assembly and sent to the governor.
- Permit Monroe County to establish a trash dump in Black Creek Park. After operating the dump, or sanitary landfill for five years, the county would convert the dump into a ski area. Passed in the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

Betros Drug Group Gives Report

NEW YORK (AP) — A state commission has recommended that much of the $23 million spent annually on state anti-drug education programs would be better applied to the student's physical and mental health.

The recommendation was contained in a 300-page report made public Wednesday by the Temporary State Commission to Evaluate the Drug Laws, headed by Assemblyman Emeel S. Betros, R-Poughkeepsie.

The commission concluded that current drug education programs can be "counterproductive" and sometimes "stimulate unnecessary interest and provoke experimentation."

Most money earmarked for drug prevention now goes for classroom education, counseling of potential drug users and after-school programs designed to keep students occupied and away from narcotics.

The report stated: "A child whose medical needs have not been attended cannot have much respect for the integrity of his own body. A child who has been educationally short-changed cannot have much respect for his own mind."

The commission found there is "no direct way to prevent the abuse of chemical substances." It concluded the only measures that can be taken are "treatment after the fact," regulation of the manufacture and distribution of drugs and "vigorous law enforcement."

Alcohol use among youths 15 to 25, recently overshadowed by the focus on drug abuse, was reported "to be approaching epidemic proportions" in Nassau, Suffolk and Onondaga Counties and in the inner-city areas of New York, Rochester and Buffalo, the commission reported.

The commission criticized the media for broadcasting beer and wine commercials and for the production of shows which depict alcoholism as "a subject of humor."

Four Sought in Aborted Break

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men and two women were being sought today after their daring but unsuccessful attempt to cut free three alleged Black Liberation Army members from behind the steel walls of the Manhattan House of Detention for Men.

Those being sought, police said, had gone into a visiting area of the prison, also known as the Tombs, and attempted to free Albert Washington, 31, and Francisco Torres, 24, both now being tried in the murders of two New York City policemen, and Henry Brown, 25. Brown was acquitted in a separate cop-killing case but is being held for trial on charges of robbing a Brooklyn bank.

The four were said to have been armed with three handguns and to have used an acetylene torch on a steel partition in a visiting area. Their attempt failed, police said, when they ran out of fuel with three inches more cutting to do to open a 12 by 15 inch hole in the quarter-inch steel plate. The four managed to escape at that point, leaving Washington, Torres and Brown behind.

While they were trying to execute their plan, they handcuffed two prison guards and locked them in booths normally used by visitors to talk by telephone with prisoners. Corrections Commissioner Benjamin Malcolm said.

Ex-Secretary: No Conspiracy

Stans Denies Ever Helping Vesco

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans testified today that "on my oath I never did anything to help Robert Vesco."

He also denied lying to the grand jury that indicted the two former Nixon cabinet members, Robert Vesco.

He flatly denied that he had conspired with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell to impede a federal investigation of the international financier in return for a $200,000 cash contribution by Vesco to the 1972 Nixon campaign. He also denied lying to the grand jury that indicted the two former Nixon cabinet members, Robert Vesco.

Stans also told the jury of the critical illness of his wife, Kathleen, during much of the time covered by the indictment, detailing how he had restricted his work schedule in order to spend all weekends and all evenings except Monday and Tuesday with her in Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Mrs. Stans contracted a rare blood disease in August, 1972, and was near death at times until mid-December.

She returned to the hospital in January 1973 with hepatitis and returned again in May with another form of hepatitis. Federal judge Lee P. Garibaldi informed the nine-man jury that he was admitting the testimony about Mrs. Stans "solely as indicating his (Stans') state of mind at the time." Defense attorney Walter J. Bonner also had said he wanted the testimony presented to show that Stans was preoccupied with his wife's illness when he testified to the grand jury in March and April of 1973.

Stans, who resigned as commerce secretary to become the 1972 finance committee chairman, and John N. Mitchell, who resigned as attorney general to head the Nixon campaign committee, are accused of trying to impede a federal investigation of Vesco in return for his gift and of lying to the grand jury about it.

Stans was the last important witness. The trial was expected to be in the jury's hands next week, the 10th trial week. The illness of Kathleen Stans came up at the end of the day when defense attorney Walter J. Bonner attempted to ask Stans about it. Prosecutor John R. Wing objected. Judge Garibaldi dismissed the jury for the day to hear arguments by Bonner.

The attorney said Stans' wife of 38 years, at that time, went into the hospital in August, 1972, and remained until December. Stans was active in the campaign until the November election in 1972 and testified to the grand jury in March and April, 1973.

"No one in his life was dearer to him than that woman," Bonner said. "She had a rare blood disease, so rare that only 100 cases have been diagnosed."

"For 10 days she was hemorrhaging from the mouth and ears, dying in front of his eyes. He had to tell his children. He was called before the grand jury. The man couldn't think. He couldn't do anything. At a critical period in this man's life he is called before a grand jury, and he is supposed to have a crystal clear recollection of things that went on."

Saxbe Labels Her Common Criminal

Jury to Look Into Patty's Role

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal grand jury will attempt to decide whether kidnapped Patricia Hearst was a willing member of a nine-person team that invaded a branch bank and made off with $10,960.

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. said Wednesday that the grand jury was looking into "the voluntariness" of Miss Hearst in Monday's robbery which ended with two bystanders suffering bullet wounds.

Meanwhile in Washington, D.C., U.S. Attorney General William B. Saxbe said he felt Miss Hearst was an active participant in the holdup and was a "common criminal."

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father and editor and publisher of The San Francisco Examiner, took umbrage with Saxbe's comments. The newspaperman called Saxbe's remarks "speechmaking."

"Saxbe has the right to think what he thinks, and I also have the right," Hearst said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's speculation at this point."

Browning had said Miss Hearst, abducted Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment by the Symbionese Liberation Army, might have been coerced into participating in the holdup to convince authorities and the public she was converted to the philosophy of the revolutionary, underground organization.

But in a Wednesday statement he said, "I have consistently maintained that evidence may show all participants in that robbery were acting freely and voluntarily. After the grand jury has heard all available evidence, I will abide by their decision."

Saxbe said he concluded Miss Hearst "was not a reluctant participant" in the robbery. He explained he based his opinion on "the way she behaved, the number of people in the bank who observed her behavior, the testimony of witnesses and the actions in the bank."

Miss Hearst was one of four women who entered the bank, the Hearst family as the leader. They were armed with automatic rifles. One man, identified by the FBI as Donald DeFreeze, accompanied them inside. Investigators said four men waited outside the Hibernia Bank branch in getaway cars.

There were those who believed Miss Hearst was coerced into participating in the crime because rifles had been pointed at her. But the bank manager and a guard said they felt she was an active participant.

DeFreeze escaped from Soledad State Prison and was believed to be "Cinque" identity.

Frisco Mayor Calls for Help on 'Zebra'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph L. Alioto called on the city's blacks Wednesday to submit willingly to police questioning and searches to track down the killers of 12 white persons in a case dubbed "Zebra."

Killers are "roaming the streets of San Francisco, simply killing people at random without any real motive and without any real sense," Alioto told a news conference. "You can't really investigate it as you would a regular murder."

The latest victim was Nelson T. Shields IV, 23, the son of a DuPont Co. executive, who was shot in the back and killed Tuesday night.

Since Nov. 26, a wave of apparently unprovoked shootings has left 12 dead and six wounded. All the victims were white; the gunmen all were black. The shootings have terrorized residents and left police investigation in the city's history. Alioto said police cars and foot patrols have blanketed San Francisco and officers will be stopping and questioning people.

"In the very nature of things, we are going to be stopping a lot of innocent people who have nothing to do with it," he said. "There is going to be natural resentment. I want the cooperation of every citizen. Every thing will be done within constitutional limits." Alioto and Police Chief Donald Scott passed out composite sketches of a man believed to be one of the killers, made after talking to two teenagers who were shot and wounded Sunday night.

"We're not going to stop white people," Scott said. "We are going to stop black people. We are not going to stop fat black people. We are going to stop slender black people."

The suspect in the composite was described as a black man, 20 to 30 years of age, and from 5 feet 9 to 6 feet tall.

Washington Garner, black president of the police commission, joined in the appeal for cooperation. "Many will take anger at being stopped and being searched. I am appealing to you that if you are stopped, show your identification and cooperate."

In almost every case, the white victim was minding his own business at night on a city street when he or she was gunned down by a black assailant with no warning.

Nixon Would Campaign More, If Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Denied by the defeat of James M. Sparling Jr., for whom he campaigned in Michigan last week.

Nixon sent Sparling, who lost the traditionally Republican seat to Democrat J. Bob Traxler, a wire congratulating him on putting up "a good fight."

Aides said that Nixon will "never turn away" from future opportunities to campaign for Republican candidates if he is invited.

The DAR can be considered a friendly audience for Nixon. The organization supports his stand against amnesty for Vietnam deserters and draft resisters, but is wary of his foreign policy views on detente with the Soviet Union.

Nixon's aides have promised a "conclusive and comprehensive" answer early next week after Congress returns from its Easter vacation. The White House has an April 25 deadline.

The aides indicate that portions of the subpoenaed tape recordings will be turned over to the impeachment panel for its inquiry. But, they said, portions of the conversations dealing with national security and non-Watergate matters will be screened out of transcripts being prepared by Nixon's Watergate lawyers. The deleted portions will be identified in a separate statement.

Whether a White House response short of the demands in the subpoena will be satisfactory remains to be seen. White House aides have indicated that some of the taped conversations which have been subpoenaed do not even exist.

Until today, a can of paint was a can of paint. Pittsburgh Paints has changed all that.

In 1967, PPG research teams began toying with the idea of using the natural characteristics of light in a different way for Pittsburgh® Paints. We wanted to duplicate Nature's method of reflecting light and use it in a durable wall paint. It would be a paint so unique, it would almost sell itself. For awhile, the idea was our impossible dream.

We knew, of course, that Nature's most intense "whites" are not made with pigments. The white appearance of clouds, surf and snow, for example, is really the optical effect caused by millions of tiny voids. Microvoids.

Compared to materials normally used to produce "whites" in paints, such as pigment, these microvoids are much more efficient in the reflection and diffraction of light, rather than absorbing it. Which is why snow viewed in sunlight is so incredibly bright—while, say, a bedsheet seen in the same sunlight lacks that beautiful natural luster.

Now, because a microvoid is just what the name implies—an empty space—our lab people were actually attempting to synthesize something that wasn't really there!

A staggering problem if you stop to think about it. Which is exactly what they did—they stopped to think about it.

That's when we literally saw the light! We discovered that if we simply put a new type of pigment or resin into a can of colored or white paint we could not produce natural microvoid beauty. We had to create it in an entirely new way. A way which would form microvoids after the paint was applied to a wall!

And, following a lot of costly failures, we finally succeeded. The technique we developed was so revolutionary and unique that it is covered by two patents (Nos. 3,669,728 and 3,669,729).

We called the technique our "Microfloc" Process. It's ours—and ours alone. And it's available in Wallhide® Latex Flat Wall Paint and only from Pittsburgh Paints.

So what does all this mean to you? Plenty! Because when you roll on this exciting new Microfloc WALLHIDE Latex Flat Paint, you can forget about painting again until you're ready to change decor. It's that durable. That bright. New Microfloc WALLHIDE Latex Flat Paint with our new, creamy formulation glides on smooth and easy. Then it dries to a tough, durable finish that can be scrubbed thousands of times without harming that beautiful, bright natural glow. Soap and water wipe away smudges, fingerprints, grime. And that "just painted" freshness keeps popping back.

Try that with the paint now on your walls. You'll understand why we're so excited about new Microfloc WALLHIDE Latex Flat Paint.

Your Pittsburgh Paints retailer has the complete Microfloc WALLHIDE Latex Flat Paint story. He'll show you the hundreds of beautiful colors in our Custom Color Collection. Almost every color uses the Microfloc Process. Every color is available right now.

You'll love these colors when you see them in the store. You'll love them on your own walls, too. And, thanks to our patented Microfloc Process, you'll love them for years to come!

O'Hara Blames Growing Disregard of Conservation Efforts

State Czar Issues Warning on Gas Supplies

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state's chief energy official has issued a cautious warning that gasoline supplies may be low by month's end and some service stations could close for lack of fuel.

A growing disregard by the state's 472 million gallon April allocation, Maj. Gen. Almerin C. O'Hara said in a statement.

The relatively large amount of fuel used could also work against Gov. Malcolm Wilson's stated desire to modify the existing odd-even gasoline sales system, O'Hara said in a statement.

Emergency Fuel Office (EFO), his statement said.

Reports indicate that not only is vehicle usage increasing, but overall speed on the state's highways has increased. . . .

Factual information requested from the Federal Energy Office on the four upcoming months' gasoline allocation, as well as a county-by-county survey of existing supplies, indicate that the situation may continue to be difficult.

"As farmers begin to break ground, our supplies will experience an additional drain over last month. Many acres laying fallow through past years have been brought back into production this year because of food shortages and phasing out of federal subsidy programs.

"All of these factors will weigh heavily in my recommendation to the governor on any modification of present regulations," O'Hara said.

A hike in traffic on the Thruway during the Easter weekend forced the state to dip into its emergency gasoline reserve when 22 of the 32 Thruway gasoline stations reported they were almost out of their entire April allocations.

The nearly million gallons sent to the emergency reserves "has jeopardized the gasoline availability for the rest of the month for the entire state," O'Hara said.

Wilson had been expected to announce earlier this week that the odd-even fuel sales ban would be lifted on weekends to satisfy a concern expressed by the tourist industry that the regulations would cut into their business.

Bids New York Legalize Acupuncture Practice

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A special study commission proposed today that the state legalize the practice of acupuncture, the ancient Chinese needle therapy.

Current state rules limit acupuncture to experimental institutions. But the Commission on Acupuncture said it should be recognized as a legitimate therapy and made available in regular hospitals and clinics.

The commission proposed that non-doctors, as well as physicians and dentists, be allowed to practice acupuncture.

But it said non-doctors should be licensed to use the technique only under the supervision of a physician. And it said acupuncture should be viewed only as a therapeutic technique, not a substitute for Western medicine.

The commission's report was released by Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who submitted it to the legislature without endorsement or comment.

In developments at the Capitol Wednesday:

—More than 2,500 middle income apartment tenants staged the largest demonstration of the year at the state house to press for legislation which would subsidize the interest costs of Mitchell-Lama and cooperative housing, and thereby bring down rents.

—Assemblyman Daniel Hailey, D-St. Lawrence, filed a civil rights suit in federal court charging Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea with unconstitutional censorship of lawmakers' letters to constituents.

In a related development, Sen. Mary Anne Krupsak, D-Montgomery, charged that someone had broken into her office in February and stolen some material from her campaign for lieutenant governor. The material, she said, was subsequently mailed out at the expense of the Senate "to embarrass me."

The Assembly approved and sent to the Senate a bill to allow news media representatives to be present at all ballot counts.

—A special state commission on drugs questioned whether beer and wine should be advertised on radio and television.

Duryea Aides Map Strategy for Lawsuit Replies

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Aides to Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea today were considering strategy for responding to a lawsuit accusing the speaker's office of censoring newsletters sent by assemblymen to their constituents.

In announcing Wednesday that the suit had been filed in federal court, Assemblyman Daniel Hailey, D-Waddington, said one of his newsletters critical of Assembly voting procedures was rejected by Duryea's staff.

Duryea and Ronald Culp of the Assembly's print shop were named in the suit brought by Hailey and Mrs. Virginia Cummings of Gouverneur, a voter in Hailey's district.

"Only my constituents have the right to censor me," Hailey said. "And this they can do at the polls. To permit anything else would deny my constituents the right to receive the information they need."

The announcement of Hailey's suit prompted Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson, R-Hornell, to make a statement on the Assembly floor defending the rejection of Hailey's newsletter.

"This is a reflection on this house and I personally resent it very strongly," Henderson said. "Mr. Hailey's so-called newsletter was extremely partisan, degrading and derisive to this house; nothing short of character assassination," he said.

As he spoke, Henderson held up what he said was literature mailed at state expense for Sen. Mary Anne Krupsak, D-Canajoharie, which carried the headline: "Krupsak for lieutenant governor."

"If Mr. Hailey wants to reform anything, I suggest he start with this," Henderson said. Miss Krupsak, however, strongly denied Henderson's charge, saying she never used state franking privileges for personal political purposes.

Under current procedures, each member of the Assembly is allowed to mail two newsletters a year for which the state will pick up the cost of printing and mailing. The content, however, may not be of a campaigning nature.

The newsletter, which was rejected last November, was a critical of voting practices in the Assembly. In the letter, Hailey claimed there had been cases of "fraudulent voting."

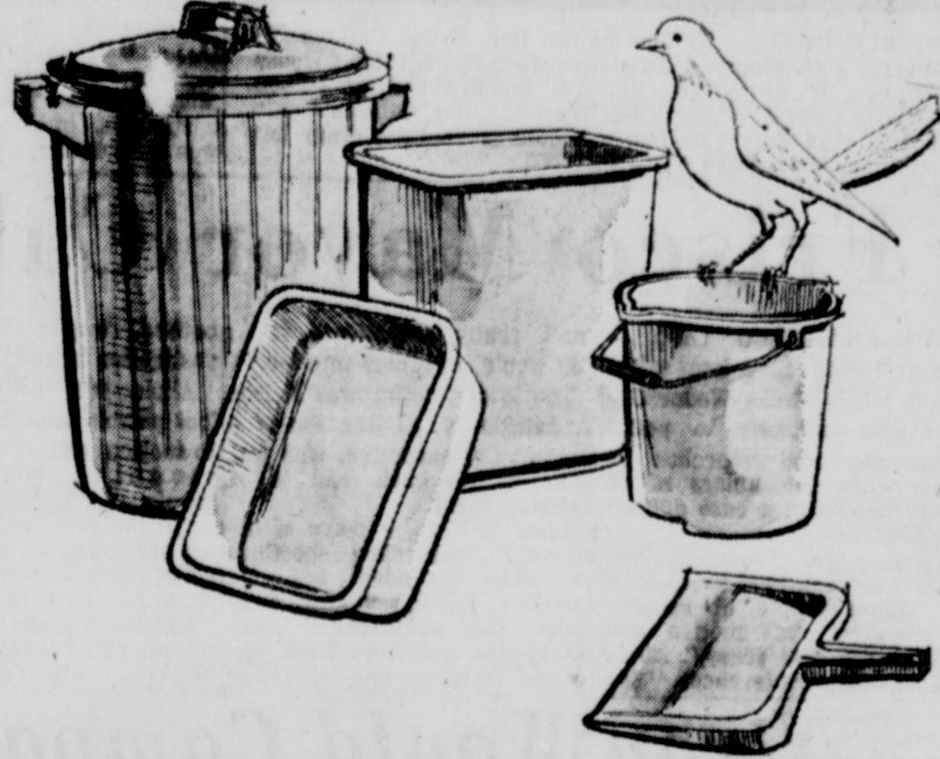

He also criticized Duryea's handling of some vote counting, saying "one doesn't have to go to Washington to find excesses that arise from the arrogance of power."

A spokesman for Duryea's office said the speaker has not yet seen a copy of the papers filed in the U.S. District Court to use a newsletter as a political or campaign mechanism. It has been clearly understood that each person uses them to talk about their own record and where they stand on the issues.

Sandra's Mom Lails Ruling

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that families of students shot by Ohio National Guardsmen in a 1970 antiwar demonstration at Kent State University can press civil suits against guardsmen and involved state officials.

The 6-0 decision reinstated for lower court action two federal civil suits seeking a total of $11 million in damages from state, school and military officials.

Four students were killed and nine others were injured when National Guardsmen fired on students demonstrating May 4, 1970, against U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

Previously, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had dismissed the suits, citing both a common law doctrine of executive immunity and the 11th Amendment to the Constitution.

The civil suits were filed by the families of three students shot to death during the demonstration.

Sarah Scheuer, the mother of Sandra Scheuer, 20, who was killed in the shooting, said, "I was discouraged before, but now I feel a little relieved. Now I believe our system of justice is working."

The mother of William Schroeder, 19, another victim, said, "I had faith we would get our day in court. I feel relieved that the country is going to live up to the constitution."

The "executive immunity" doctrine states that government officers are immune from personal liability for damages arising from official actions and the 11th Amendment prohibits suits against states by individuals.

But the Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, held Wednesday that the doctrine of executive immunity was limited, and not absolute. It barred suits against individual officials.

Moscow was never very happy in its relationship with Sadat's predecessor, Gama Abdel Nasser. But it is even more irked with the man who assumed Nasser's mantle in 1970. This irritation has been increasing ever since the October war. Now, if Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger seems to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has been trying to counter Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East, and Syria is the obvious route. The Kremlin wants badly to shift attention away from Kissinger's activities to an unwieldy Geneva conference where the Russians can be more visible.

Sadat irked Moscow by fail-

- Neglected to confide in his Russian allies before agreeing to Kissinger's disengagement proposals.
- Ignored a Soviet proposal that Russian and American officers sit in on the disengagement talks between Egypt and Israel;
- Won majority backing for his policy from an Arab summit in Algiers.

Backers of the plan com- plained that married working women frequently are denied a personal credit rating even in cases where they earned more money than their spouses. Di- vorced women often have had difficulties in obtaining loans or credit, they said.

Several other consumer related proposals were acted on in the legislature, including one that would require the licensing of motor vehicle repair shops and another requiring public hearing before a utility could pass on fuel-adjustment charges to customers.

The credit bill, which Wilson had first mentioned during his "State of the State" message in January, prohibits discrimina- tion in granting credit on the basis on marital status and sex as well as race, color creed or national origin.

The Russians have had lots of time to get used to the idea that Sadat trusted them even less than Nasser did.

Sadat is a devout Moslem who fears the Soviet brand of atheistic communism. He gave a detailed account a few years ago of a bruising experience he had with Kremlin hard-sell when he visited Moscow at the head of an Egyptian delegation in May 1961.

At that meeting, Nikita Khrushchev exploded when Sa- dat suggested Egypt's inter- national affairs were none of his business.

Relations between Cairo and Moscow have always been on- again, off-again. They were se- verely strained in mid-1971 when Communists in the Sudan, Egypt's neighbor, tried to seize power and failed; and again in 1972 when Sadat suggested the Russians were primarily inter- ested in a no war-no peace situ- ation in the Middle East be- cause it would be advantageous to the communist cause. A few months after that Sadat abrupt- ly told 15,000 Russian military advisors to pack up and go home, and the Kremlin had to grin and bear it.

national elections now is for the President to make a personal appearance by Presiding over the inauguration ceremony. "I think the Democrats to end up with an overwhelming majority in the House. This will mean a legislative dictatorship," Traxler said the election would have no bearing on how Congress treats the President in regard to the impeachment inquiry now being conducted by the House Judiciary Committee. Sparling said he did not blame Nixon for his defeat. "Traxler, who won in this traditionally GOP district despite the personal appearance by President Nixon on behalf of Sparling, said Nixon is the problem of Republicans, not Democrats. Traxler's victory gave the 8th District seat to Democrats for the first time since 1932. It marked the fourth time in five special elections this year that normally GOP areas have fallen to the Democrats. But it was the first time Nixon took an active role in trying to stem the tide. With all of he 296 precincts in the district uncounted for

In unofficial returns, Traxler had 59,918 votes, Sparling 56,375.

The results gave Traxler 51.4 per cent of the vote.

Traxler said after his victory that voters knew that perhaps a new moral force was needed in the White House.

"And while we didn't dwell on Watergate, there are a lot of people who felt it very important that a message and communication be sent that decency, honesty and integrity are absolutely essential in the White House."

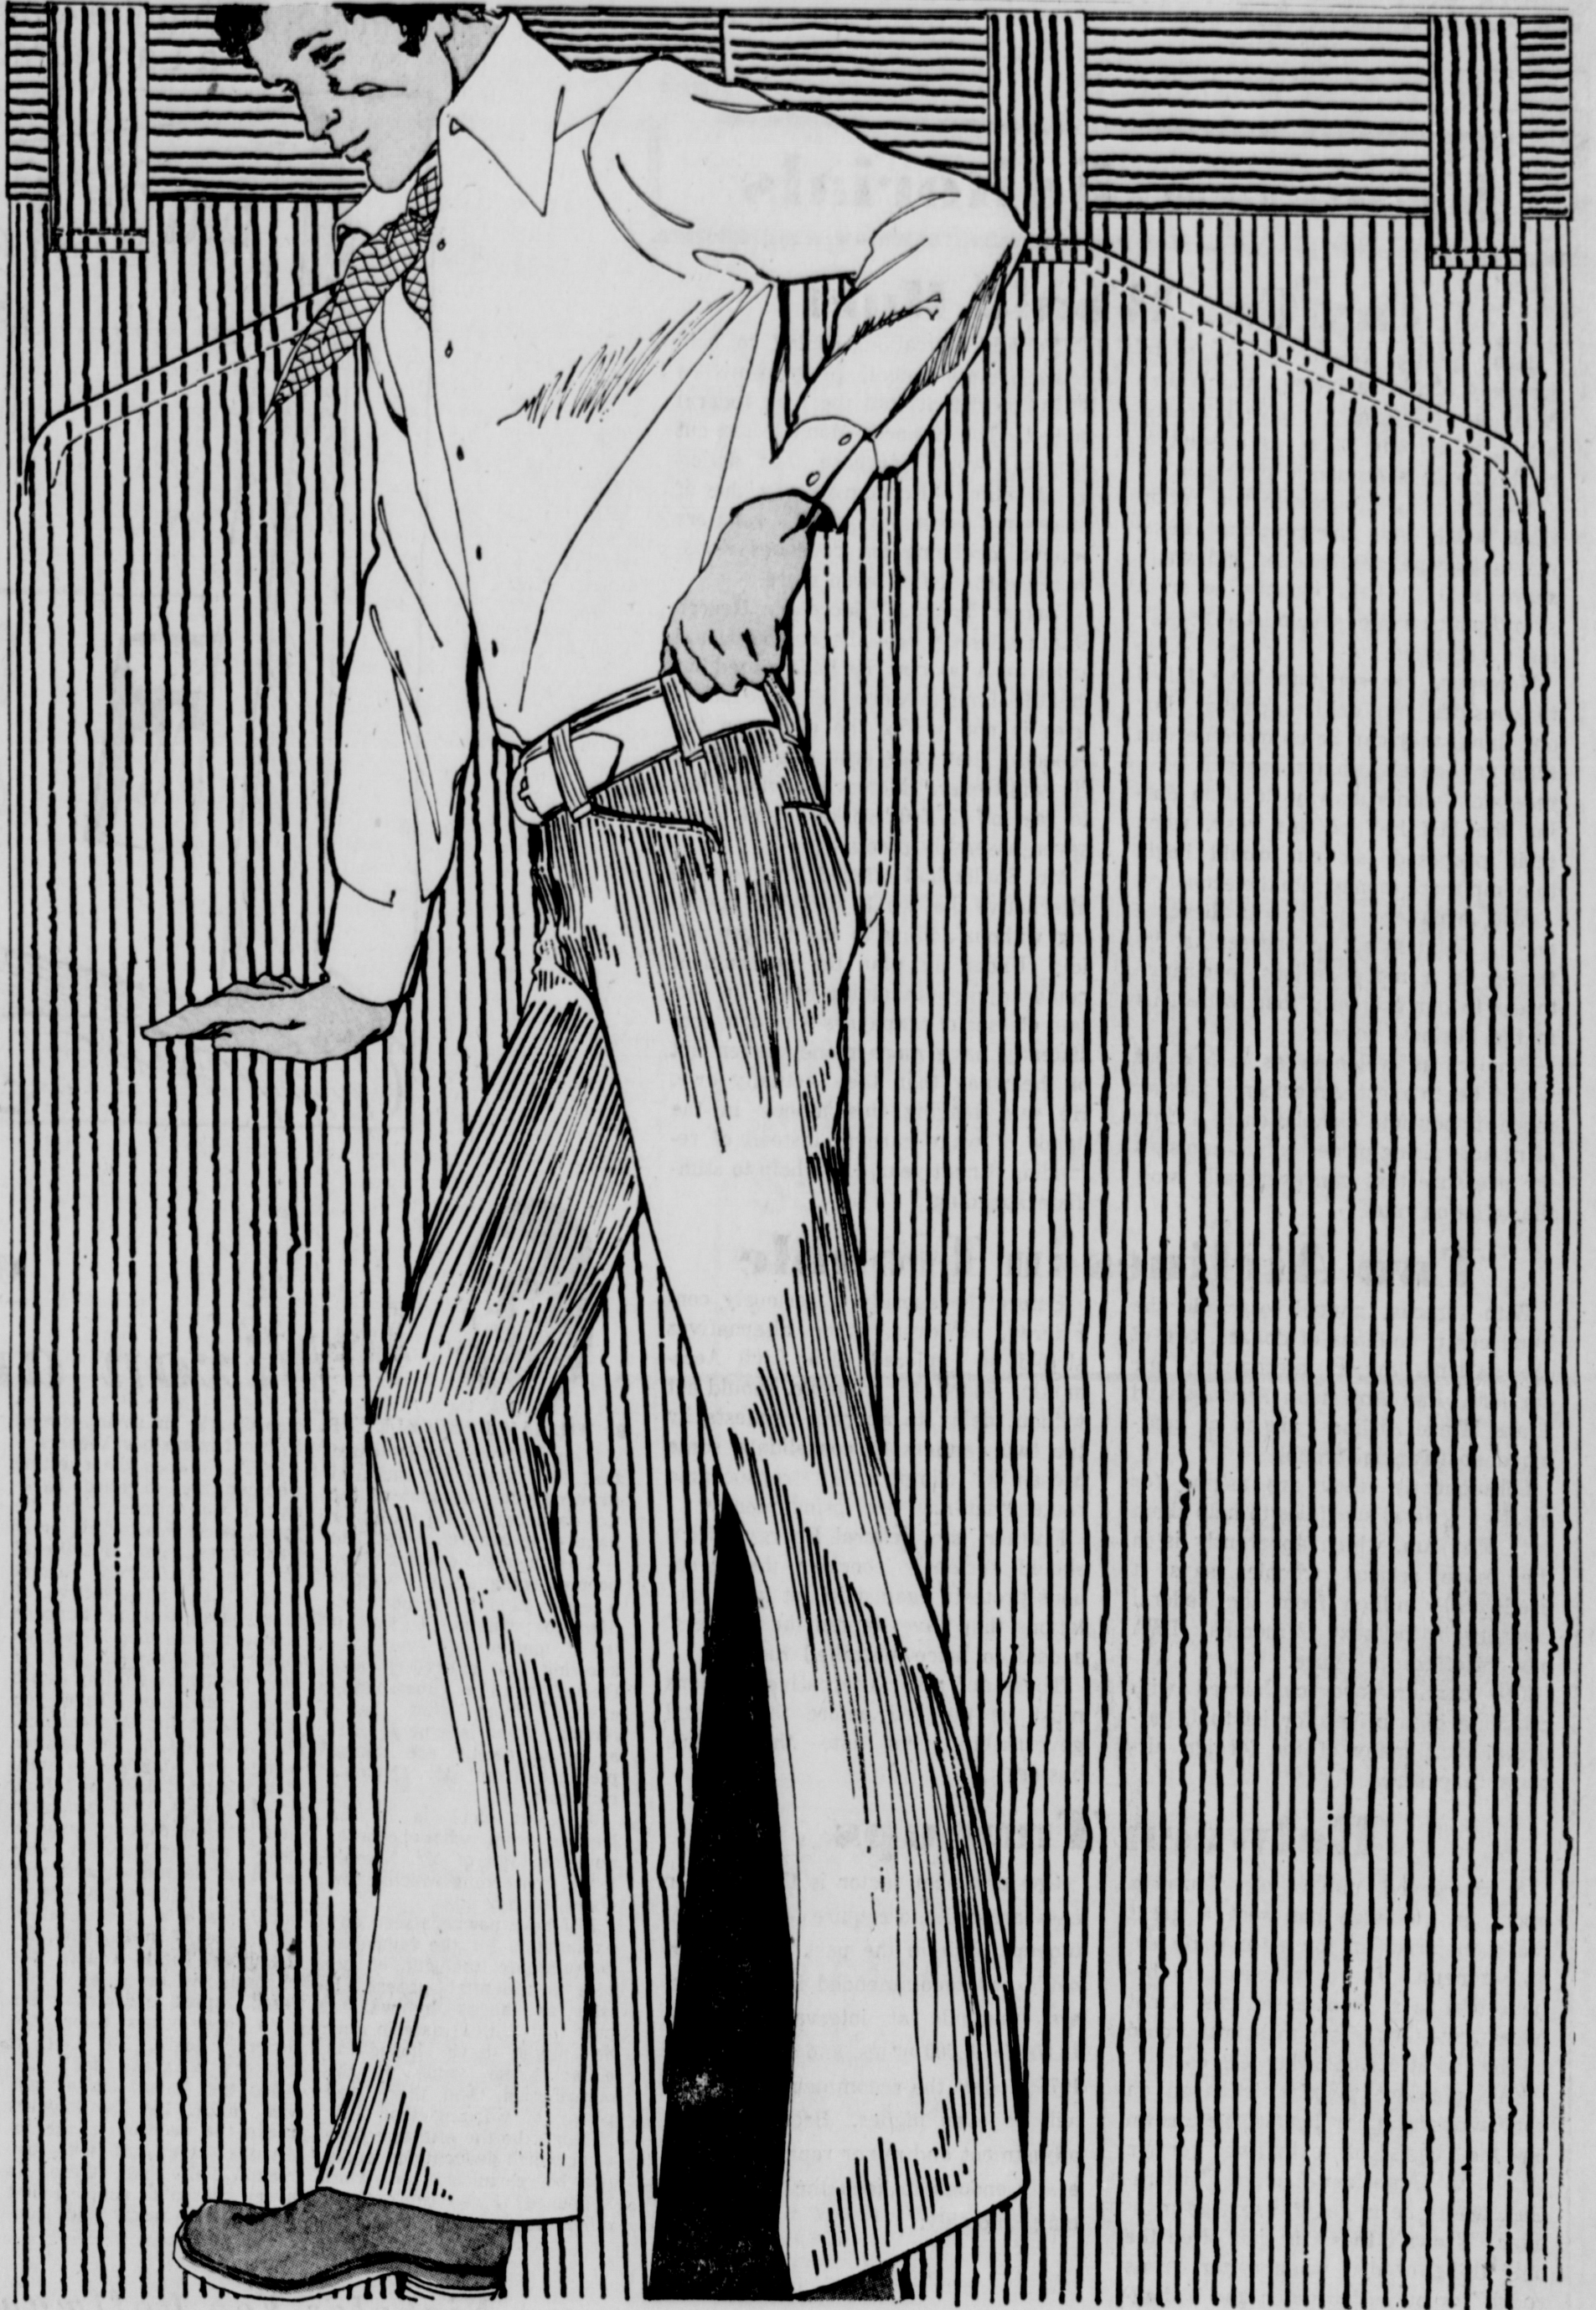

In his comments, in a statement given to newsmen at Palm Springs, Calif., Ford said he had talked with Sparling "and he informed me that Watergate was not the principal factor in his defeat. The unions simply did a better job than the Republican organization in getting out the vote."

Sparling said he would decide later whether to challenge Traxler in November, when the seat opens up again in a regular election.

He insisted Nixon was not invited to Michigan to campaign for him, but rather to "get out of the White House where he is now isolated and face the people."

In his three-hour tour in the district last week, Nixon avoided heavily Democratic big city areas, where unemployment hovers around 10 per cent. He concentrated instead on the small communities where the district's GOP strength lies.

He drew a generally warm welcome from thousands, although there were some protesters.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 18, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The White House has secretly appointed wealthy campaign contributors to the standby corps, which would help run the country in case of war.

The fatcats, selected more for their political generosity than their executive ability, have been forced upon a reluctant National Defense Executive Reserve.

This is an elite reserve

oufit of 3,600 private executives, who would immediately step into top defense jobs in 19 federal agencies if war should break out.

The White House tried to line up the most prestigious jobs for business executives who had contributed heavily to President Nixon's 1972 campaign. Or, as a confidential White House memo put it, there is "considerable potential opportunity to reward deserving Nixon executives with an NDER appointment."

The memo, addressed to presidential assistant Dan Kingsley, stated that the Office of Emergency Preparedness was quite willing to accept the campaign donors. Both the director, George Lincoln, and his deputy, Darrell Trent, "concur and are ready to start," declared the memo.

There was hesitation, however, from OEP officials Margaret Cates who insisted on choosing qualified executives. The White House memo implied cautiously that pressure could be brought on her.

"Although not a political appointee, Mrs. Cates appears loyal and is under the direction of Darrell Trent," said the memo. The implication was that Trent could get her to comply.

The memo directed that the Nixon contributors "must be placed in a unit, unless their qualifications just don't meet the necessary requirements."

The only cautionary note appears to have been scrawled on the memo by Bill Horton, an aide to then White House personnel czar Fred Malek.

"Are these positions sufficiently prestigious so that the candidates feel recognized?" asks the note. Apparently the answer was affirmative, for Mrs. Cates shortly got about 100 Nixon campaign contributors to place.

She thinks she accepted about 20, the most qualified of the Nixon appointees, for the program, she told us. The White House referrals are still coming in, she added. She also pointed out that the jobs are nonpaying.

FORD'S FUTURE: Much to the embarrassment of Vice President Gerald Ford, the favorite parlor game within President Nixon's official family is to speculate whom the survivors will be if Ford moves up to the presidency.

Ford has ordered his aides and pleaded with his friends, please, to stop the guessing games. He doesn't want to appear to be crowding the President as Mr. Nixon gets closer to an impeachment vote in the House.

Still, the speculation goes on. One powerful cabinet member, who for obvious reasons doesn't want to be identified, told us he has already decided upon his own course in case Ford replaces Nixon in the White House.

The cabinet officer will deliver a letter of resignation to President Ford and will urge the new President to accept the resignation of everyone in the White House and cabinet.

A clean sweep is essential, he told us forcefully, to restore public confidence in the government.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger dialed Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, the other morning to return a two-day-old phone call. Sources privy to the incident say Hays answered in a sleepy voice: "Hello, honey." When he discovered it was Kissinger calling, the acerbic Hays snorted that he had wanted to talk to Kissinger a couple days earlier, not now. Then the phone went dead. Hays, with a broad smile, told us the story was "apocryphal."

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., is steaming over the failure of President Nixon to answer his letter of February 5 posing 11 key questions on Watergate. A White House spokesman told us merely that the President was tied up on other matters. President Nixon and Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, put on a big show recently of investigating the tornado damage to southern Ohio. What they didn't mention was that Brown had helped to kill a bill last year that would have given the tornado victims a $2,500 forgiveness on federal loans and a three per cent interest on the balance. When the bill was passed over Brown's opposition, the President vetoed it. A supposedly impartial $20,000 study of the controversial U.S. Information Agency will be conducted by Walter Roberts who, astonishingly, just resigned as associate director of the agency he will now investigate. He was chosen to investigate his own previous performance by the Center for Strategic and International Studies, which sees no conflict in the selection.

"I'm Not Filling the Machine — Just Putting in a Larger Money Box!"

Freeman Editorials

Tax Cut Would Hurt

Two Senate Democrats, Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Walter Mondale of Minnesota, have proposed a cut in income taxes as a solution to the nation's economic problems.

The two senators say that a cut in taxes would give the consumer more money to cope with inflation and would serve also to help business over a slump which some economists are calling a recession.

However, the senators have failed to consider two critical points. For one thing, they can be no more certain than anyone else that there will be a recession with runaway inflation during the last half of this year, when their proposed tax cut would begin to pump more money into the economy.

Also, even economists who disagree on the business outlook agree that inflation is a more serious long-range threat to our economy than variations in the business levels.

Finally, as welcome as a tax cut would be to most Americans, putting more money into circulation in a time of rapidly rising prices only diminishes the pressure that can eventually slow the inflation rate.

The administration, hoping to hold down unemployment, programmed a $9 billion deficit into the next federal budget. The Kennedy-Mondale tax cut proposal would increase that deficit by $6 billion. Economists say that if there is a recession, as the senators believe, declining tax revenues would increase the deficit even more.

Former Treasury Secretary George Shultz tried to cool the congressional ardor for a tax cut. He had pointed out that the slump in energy-sensitive industries is not having the effect on the economy that some economists feared. He said General Motors canceled plans to lay off 27,000 workers and close seven assembly plants.

Mr. Shultz had offered Congress an alternative that would stimulate spending without adding to the budget deficit. Under his plan the government could adjust withholding rates for certain classes of taxpayers who now consistently have more money taken out of their pay than they actually owe. He said leaving this money in the hands of wage earners instead of refunding it next year could help to stimulate spending.

Two Airlines in Trouble

With forecast annual losses in the hundreds of millions of dollars, two of the nation's major international air carriers, Pan American Airways and Trans World Airlines, are in or nearing deep financial trouble.

Consequently, they are asking for massive federal subsidies to help them out. Pan Am, which apparently is in the more serious trouble, says it needs $194 million from the federal treasury in the next 12 months. TWA has not offered a figure.

The carriers are confronted with crippling high prices for jet fuel, particularly at many of the foreign airports they serve.

Before the subsidy is seriously considered, however, other alternatives should be explored. The Civil Aeronautics Board, for example, should act without delay to approve requests by the two carriers to consolidate some presently competitive transoceanic routes that now are losing money.

Further, the Federal Energy Office should seriously consider the strenuous protests against its jet fuel regulations that have limited the carriers' access to price-controlled fuel.

These and other alternative solutions must be pursued before the federal government gets into the airline business.

Between Tuneups

A sharpened public consciousness about gas mileage has sent a great many motorists in for a full-scale engine tuneup. There is reason to believe that in a lot of cases this is not necessary—that lesser measures would do the job at considerably less cost.

This pleasant thought is based on expert observations by George Brown on the basis of extensive service studies at American Motors Corporation, where he is general service manager. Brown's thesis is that often the only thing needed when a car "runs rough" or burns too much gas is diagnosis and correction of the specific trouble involved.

One pertinent factor is that modern cars are built to require less frequent tuneups than in the past. Such overhauls are recommended in most owners' manuals at intervals of from 12,000 to 18,000 miles, and starting with 1975 models the recommended interval will be even higher. Between times, adjustment and minor repairs are generally enough to keep the engine running smoothly.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

I am everywhere informed that Mr. Nixon has suffered grievously on account of the tax delinquency. On the other hand — in almost every case — I am being told about other people's indignation. I wonder whether it is a synthetic indignation: whether, in fact, it is a matter of everybody knowing how everybody else feels, while personally exempt from that same feeling. What is true is that a lot of people are taking pleasure from Mr. Nixon's reversals.

A great deal is to be learned from what becomes now the saga of Mr. Nixon's taxes, concerning which a few observations:

1) I have nowhere seen any explanation for the failure to consummate the gift of his vice presidential papers. It isn't as though by waiting past that critical date in July he might have hoped to enhance the value of the contribution. And there was plenty of warning that July 25 might be the effective date after which deductions would not be permitted. So what happened? I can think of no other explanation that extraordinary mismanagement by Mr. Nixon's bookkeepers.

2) That raises the question whether the so-called back-dating was offensive to the moral sense. What it evidently was, was illegal. But illegal only in the purely formal sense. I.e., non-effective. I give you an example. Suppose you telephone your lawyer on June 1 and say to him: I have decided to will my estate to my daughter. Then you leave town for two months. On your return, the lawyer brings you your will to sign. How should it be dated? June 1, or August 1? I am sure that testamentary experts have an answer to this question, very likely different answers in different places. It could make a great deal of difference — in England, for instance. There a gift, for example, is taxed at a different rate if turned over less than three years before the donor's death, so that it matters a great deal just when the "constructive" gift was made. Let the lawyers make the decision in the individual case. Suffice to say, meanwhile, that there is every reason to suppose that Mr. Nixon made the constructive gift well before the deadline, and that he is now paying close to a half million dollars extra tax on account of the extravagant inefficiency of his staff.

On the Right

Nixon and His Taxes

3) The whole argument about Nixon having paid fewer taxes than the local plumber is altogether beside the point. There are very good arguments against a public official laying claim to papers he accumulated while in public service, and if I had to vote, it would be that said papers are public property. But that is not how they have been treated. For at least a generation, presidents have kept their papers, and turned them over, often with tax benefits, to whoever they chose. FDR didn't consult Congress about the resting place for his papers, neither did Hoover, Truman, LBJ, the estate of John Kennedy. Accordingly, the furor over the Nixon papers is in the nature of a bill of attainder, and I don't like that, and neither should the people; and who knows, maybe they don't, really.

4) Though one is helpless on the matter of the little items, one wonders, really, if there are any limits to pettifoggery. If you retain a bookkeeper to keep track of all deductible expenses, that is what the bookkeeper is going to do. And if you donate a bag of salted peanuts to the church bazaar, it is the bookkeeper's responsibility to figure out what a bag of salted peanuts is worth, and to take a deduction which you may not even be aware of.

To suggest that the man who does this is a Scrooge, scheming to screw the exchequer, is quite simply naive. Now if the deduction is for some reason improper, that then is disallowed. It is a singular vice of the tax system, that this is not an open and shut question. It is often a value question: like whether Tricia's party was really a family affair, or half and half, or one-quarter and three-quarters or whatever. Everybody has a chance to argue his case with the tax court. Except Mr. Nixon, who is in a general bind and is losing his freedom of action. Perhaps it is true that the fault was his to begin with. But the gloating is ours, and is unseemly.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Local Banking at Its Best

CHICAGO — Down to slightly more than half of the $80 million in deposits the bank once had, the officers of South Shore National here think they've stopped the dollar exodus from their community. For awhile, however, it looked as if the bank itself was going to join the whites streaming out of this formerly wealthy area on the shores of Lake Michigan.

It had made application with the Controller of the Currency in Washington to move downtown into the new 80-story Standard Oil Building in the Loop. The desire to get out didn't make the South Shore Bank unique. On the city's West Side, 300,000 blacks live without a single bank.

In general, Chicago's banks may have redlined the entire city. It is estimated, by a few of the subversive types who try to research these things, that this city has a "disinvestment rate" of 80 per cent. If true, that means 80 cents out of every dollar deposited in a Chicago bank is invested outside the city. You can get some confirmation of that in the April issue of Fortune magazine, where Chicago's Continental Bank has a two-page color ad boasting where it and its holding-company affiliates have provided real estate financing. Only two of 18 projects mentioned are in the state of Illinois. The rest are in Texas, California, Toronto, Montreal, Nova Scotia, Hawaii, etc., etc.

All of this takes on an additional irony when you remember the national TV ad campaign the industry has going, glorifying your local, neighborhood, "full-service bank." They show us example after example of how a bank was able to save a small, usually rural, dying community. It would be interesting to know how many urban communities the banks may have helped kill off by withdrawing exactly the same services they tell us are so indispensable.

They are indeed indispensable; for the banking institutions, besides lending other people's money, are the unique and sole conduits the government uses in the creation of credit — that is, apportioning out the all-important borrowing power by which everything does or does not happen. That is why the decision of the South Shore bank to stay in what is now an 80 per cent black community could be important.

For it to happen, the bank had to be sold to a group headed by Ronald Grzywinski, a Chicago banker with a record for making his bank live up to its advertising. The down payment was provided by foundations and a couple of wealthy men who don't care to maximize their profits. The rest of the financing of the total $3.2 million price was provided by the billion-dollar American National Bank.

The new management began by abandoning banker's hours and staying open late enough to accommodate the new population with its high percentage of working wives, as well as husbands. The 20-deep lines at the tellers' windows were done away with, and a major effort is now underway to let the new folks know the bank hasn't given up on them and is genuinely soliciting their business. Grzywinski, the white board chairman, and Milton Davis, the black president, have been going through the neighborhood, attending coffee meetings and wine-and-cheese parties set up on a block-by-block basis, to reach prospective depositors.

Such forthright and friendly behavior on the part of bankers is as unheard of as it is welcome, but whether it will work to save the bank or the community is another question. While there are still a number of quite well-to-do whites in the choicest lake-front sections, the blacks coming in don't have the purchasing power of the former inhabitants. If you ignore inflation, the dollar income of the area has held steady for a number of years, but, on the average, rents eat up 35 per cent of after-tax income.

In addition, Chicago, like most other cities, still prefers to put its dough into showy glamor projects rather than the more ordinary efforts needed to encourage people to make small, neighborhood investments. The bank hopes it can generate enough money so that, through a non-profit firm owned by the bank's holding company, it can make up for the deficiencies of capital from the public sector.

This is a tall order for one medium-size bank, no matter how creatively run. Returning the bank to a condition of high growth and profitability would be quite an accomplishment, even without saving the community. Too many ideas have been oversold as city savers. But in a period when the government offers no hope and no one has hope in the government, the South Shore Bank is one of the few promising ideas around.

Blas Tabbed CBA President

KINGSTON

Seymour (Sy) Blas, owner of Kingston Linoleum and Carpet Inc. at 682 Broadway, was elected president of the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association recently, succeeding Edward Arace.

Blas, who served on the board of directors previous to his election as president of the merchant's group, said his major goal was "to try to get the organization active again." "Apathy runs rampant through Central Broadway," Blas contends. "If we can get more unity we can work on some of these problems," he said. Right now, one of the major goals of the association is a "thorough cleanup of Broadway."

Joseph Brophy was elected vice president of the association and William Teetsel was elected treasurer. Meetings are held at Scholiar's.

Modena Man Is Arrested

A young Modena man was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bail Wednesday following his arrest by state police on a warrant charging him with the rape of an 18-year-old State University College at New Paltz student.

Police said Manuel Gomez, 24, of Maple Villa Apartments, who is employed as a cook in the New Paltz area, allegedly picked up the unidentified victim of the attack in a New Paltz bar on April 14, drove her to a wooded area, and forcibly raped her. Gomez then allegedly took the coed to her residence, and drove off.

Gomez is scheduled to reappear in court at a later date. He was charged with first degree rape, a felony.

Blossom Seeley Dead at 82

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Blossom Seeley, a song and dance star of vaudeville, died Wednesday at the age of 82.

Miss Seeley, who was born in San Francisco in 1891, was already performing at the age of 10 as "The Little Blossom." When she appeared on Broadway in 1911 in "Henpecks," she stopped the show with the song, "The Frisco Toddler."

She was billed during the vaudeville years as "The Hottest Girl in Town," with her renditions of such songs as "Somebody Loves Me," "Jealous" and "I Cried for You."

Miss Seeley's last public appearance was in 1966 on Ed Sullivan television show. She performed for many years with her husband, the late Benny Fields. They were known for their theme songs "Melancholy Baby" and "Lullaby of Broadway."

Miss Seeley was first married to Joseph Kane, a theatrical manager. The union ended in 1913, when she married Richard "Rube" Marquard, a major league baseball pitcher with whom she had appeared on the stage.

That marriage also ended in divorce and Miss Seeley married Fields in 1922.

Stamp Unit Plans Auction

FREEDOM PLAINS Allen Pink, president of the Ferrary Philatelic Society, made known that the spring auction of the society is scheduled for Friday 8 p. m. at the Arlington High School, Route 55, Freedom Plains.

Hilton Contides, treasurer, will be in charge of the auction. Offered for sale will be U.S. Canadian, U.N. and world-wide postage stamps, mint and used, as well as first-day covers, special events covers, philatelic catalogs and albums, to be sold to the highest bidder.

The meeting is open to the public at no charge. Information on membership, copy of the meeting program, and monthly bulletin available from the secretary, Dr. LeRoy B. Nydegger, 230 Route 32 South, New Paltz.

On May 3 Dr. H. Marjorie H. Crawford will be the speaker with the theme "Stamping Around Europe."

ACLD Meeting

The Ulster County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will meet 8 p. m. Tuesday, April 23 at Edson School, Merilina Avenue. There will be registration for the summer program after a brief business session.

Narcotics Raid In Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE City and State Police raided several residences in Poughkeepsie early today, confiscated a quantity of cocaine and narcotics paraphernalia, and arrested six city residents, five of whom were charged with the alleged sale of heroin or cocaine.

Troop K BCI Commander P. Joseph Leary said the raids were an extension of a massive raid during February in which nearly 50 persons were arrested throughout Dutchess County and charged with the alleged sale or possession of drugs.

Charged today with sale of a controlled substance were Gary Sea, 52, of Winneke Avenue, Ann Marie Whalen, 25, of Main Street, Iris Storis, 23, of North Hamilton Street, Linda Woods, 23, of Flannery Avenue, and John Yant, 25, of the Poughkeepsie Inn. All five face possible life imprisonment if convicted on the felony charge. Police additionally arrested John Johnson, 28, of Winneke Avenue for alleged possession of cocaine. She was charged with seventh degree possession of a controlled substance, a misdemeanor.

Arraignments were scheduled in city court today.

Meanwhile, in a separate drug case, Poughkeepsie Police arrested two men Wednesday afternoon for the alleged possession of an estimated two ounces of pure heroin.

Charged with first degree possession of a controlled substance were Ronald Thomas, 26, and Joe Houston, 23, both of 18 North Bridge Street, Poughkeepsie.

Police said the heroin was found in the car in which the two were riding at about 4:45 p. m. The arrests were the result of an extensive investigation.

which had led to a search warrant being issued prior to the stopping of the vehicle. Police said the two men were bringing the heroin to Poughkeepsie from New York City when they were halted and searched.

Police were not immediately able to estimate the value of the drugs seized in either of the cases.

Executive Enters Guilty Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John George M. Steinbrenner III, H. Melcher Jr., executive vice president and counsel of American Shipbuilding Co., pleaded guilty today to concealing an illegal $25,000 campaign contribution to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Melcher's surprise plea to the misdemeanor count reportedly means he will testify against the company's chief executive, in jail and a $5,000 fine. His guilty plea was accepted by Chief U.S. District Judge John Hart, who delayed sentencing.

The guilty plea said that Melcher "did relieve, comfort and assist Steinbrenner in order to hinder and prevent Steinbrenner's apprehension, trial and punishment . . . by using a false and misleading explanation of the $25,000 contribution."

Corporate political contributions are illegal.

Melcher said in the plea that Steinbrenner "willfully and unlawfully" consented to make a corporate contribution on behalf of American Shipbuilding to the Nixon campaign.

According to testimony given by company officials at the Senate Watergate committee hearings, the source of the money was concealed by passing it through payrolls of various employees so they would appear to be individual contributions.

Shandaken Zoning Hearing . . . Plan, Map Outlined

ALLABEN A "full house" turned out for the fourth and possibly last public meeting on the town of Shandaken's proposed zoning plan Wednesday night at the town hall.

Some 70 persons were in attendance to hear Frederick P. Weidel, a professional consultant with the firm of Frederick P. Clark Associates, which drew up the plan and map, outline the various zones and requirements therein.

Due to the crowd, the informational hearing, scheduled for 7:30, didn't get going until 8 and it lasted for at least two and a half hours.

According to Supervisor Raymond Dunn the pros and cons of the issue again came down to development versus ecology. "Some people who owned large tracts of land zoned residential were disappointed in it," Dunn said, suggesting that such lands might have been targeted for development. The proposed zoning ordinance allows for amendment through a zoning board of appeals and the town board. Dunn said the entire town board was in attendance, "just as onlookers," but that the mood of the board seems to be one of "let's get on with it. Let's make a decision one way or the other."

Man Charged

A 20-year-old Palenville resident was charged with felonious possession of a dangerous weapon Wednesday by Thruway State Police after they allegedly spotted a .22 caliber pistol in his car. Troopers had stopped Larry J. Osborn for driving 100 miles per hour on the four-lane highway in the Town of Ulster. Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Osborn was released in his own recognizance pending a later court appearance.

Rocky, Nixon Have Session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller held an unannounced 90-minute meeting with President Nixon Wednesday in the Oval Office, the White House announced.

Tom Decair, a press assistant, said the two men discussed the progress of Rockefeller's work as head of the National Commission on Critical Choices.

"He comes in periodically to talk about this," said Decair. He was unable to say whether politics and Michigan's 8th District defeat were discussed.

Voters Support Modena Fire Bond Issue

MODENA The Modena Fire Department passed the first big hurdle in its drive to solve its problem with space when fire district voters approved a $120,000 bond issue by a count of 110 to only 30 against in voting Tuesday.

Jim Palen, the department's assistant chief, said the architect would now come up with working drawings, and the project could then go to bid. He said the department was hoping for a construction start in June or July.

The bond issue will be used for an addition to the present building on Route 44-55 in Modena, with "no expensive remodeling" of the present structure promised by the firemen. Passage of the bond issue means the tax rate for those in the fire district will go from $2.72 per thousand of assessed valuation to $5.21.

Bank Robbery In Latham

COHOES, N.Y. (AP) — A freckled man robbed a bank in nearby Latham of an estimated $2,600 Wednesday, Town of Colton police said.

Bank employees said the man, between 25 and 35 years old, about 5-foot-8, had many freckles on his nose and hands. Police said the man entered the Bank of New York office shortly after it opened.

State School Aid State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today reported distribution of 23 per cent of state support to public schools with Ulster County receiving $5,471,136.72 as its share. The payment is the fifth to be made during the current school year.

WATER YOU DRINK Has a Strong Bearing on Your Health

Some people—and we consider them misinformed—claim that the body needs the minerals in water. They advise people to avoid distilled water for this reason. They would have us drink water saturated with impurities and chemicals and run the risk of contracting serious diseases to obtain a few minerals.

Water is certainly not our only source of minerals. The mineral content in water varies from area to area. One locality might have water with a high calcium content and be low in phosphorus. Drinking a glass of milk would supply both.

So doesn't it make good common sense to clean the water of all bacteria, virus and chemicals, eat a good balanced diet, and if there are doubts as to sufficient minerals, take a good organic mineral supplement?

Portable Water Distiller

MINI-AQUA Approx. 4 gal. per 24 hours

New! Portable, STAINLESS STEEL home water distillers convert any water source into fresh, delightful drinking water without fuss or muss. The silent, efficient steam-distilling action can make your water the best in the county. It's easy to operate. It plugs in like a toaster with no plumbing necessary.

Automatically removes rust, detergents, pesticides, chlorine, fluorides, alum, sulphur and other obnoxious gases, minerals and bacterial impurities. You can bottle this water for future use. ENJOY FRESH DISTILLED WATER DAILY. Makes your drinking water problems a thing of the past! The right water can make a drastic change in your health!

IBM Restructures Its World Trade

ARMONK — IBM Chairman Frank T. Cary has announced the restructuring of the IBM World Trade business into two new operating units reporting to the Corporate Office through IBM vice chairman Gilbert E. Jones.

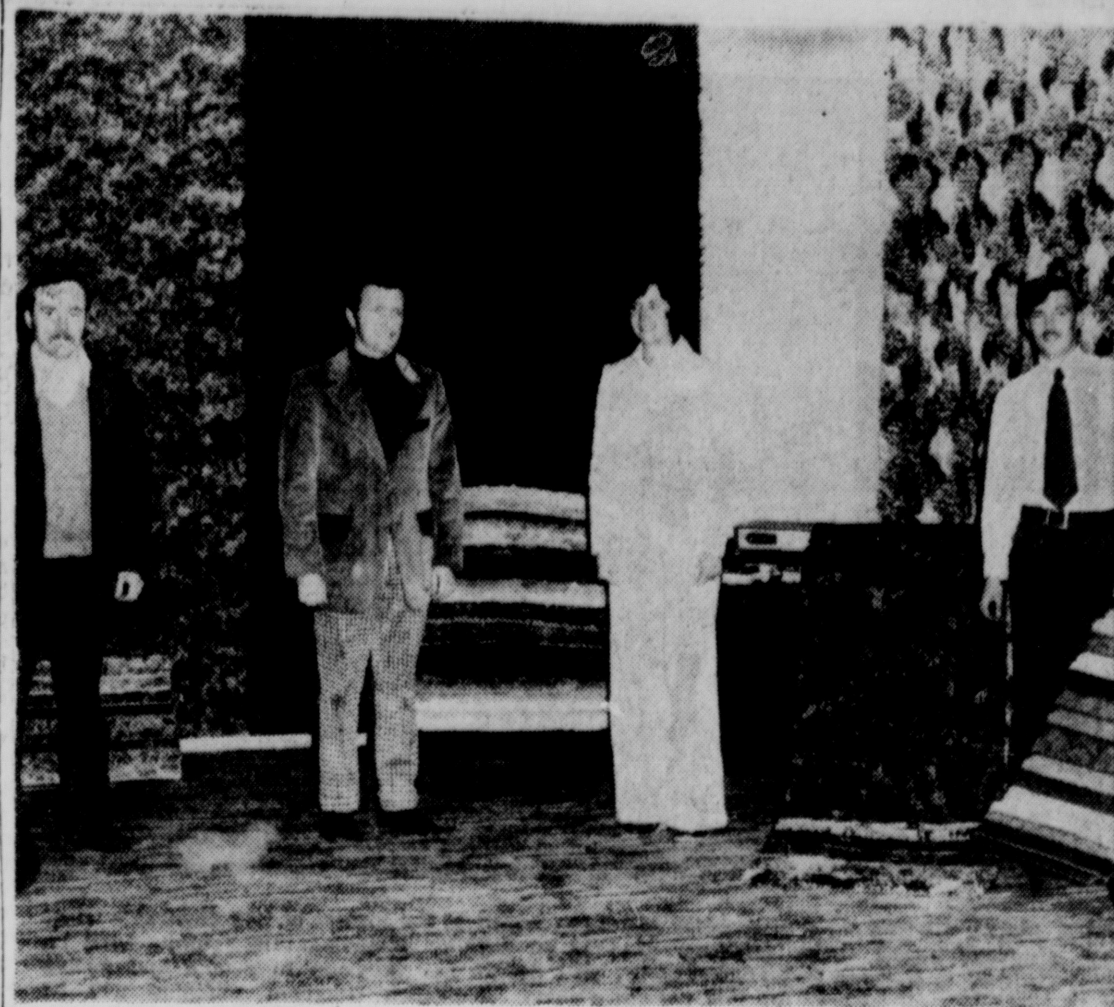

They are:
The IBM World Trade Europe/Middle East/Africa Corporation, with Jacques Maisonneuve, senior vice president, as chairman and chief executive officer and Frank J. Cumiskey as president. He was formerly WTC vice president and group executive.

The IBM World Trade Americas/Far East Corporation, with Ralph A. Pfeiffer Jr. as chairman and chief executive officer. Pfeiffer, who has been elected an IBM senior vice president, was formerly president of the Data Processing Division. The president of the new unit is Gordon R. Williamson, formerly WTC vice president and group executive for the Americas/Far East.

Cary said: "We are making these changes to strengthen our responsiveness in the marketplace — the marketplace not of today where we are doing well with an old structure, but the marketplace of tomorrow where we hope to do even better with a new one. For our World Trade business, today's reorganization means decentralization, a shortening of communication lines and moving the decision-making process as close as possible to the point where decisions are needed."

The IBM World Trade Corporation will continue to report to the Corporate Office and provide corporate support to the country organizations in the areas of accounting, the treasurer functions, legal counsel and information systems. Mr. Jones and Mr. Maisonneuve continue as chairman and president respectively. Headquarters for WTC and the new corporations will be in the New York area.

Succeeding Pfeiffer as president of the Data Processing Division is John F. Akers, vice president of field operations in the division.

JAY VEE RUG CELEBRATION — Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stoutenburgh (C) owners of the Jay Vee Rug Company, Route 28, are surrounded by some of the more than 3,750 sample pieces of carpeting now on display in their newly remodeled showroom. Established in 1963, Jay Vee has been at its present location since September 1970. The owners report the renovation project increased the size of the showroom to 2,400 square feet. Top names in the carpeting industry are featured, including Alexander Smith, Monarch, Firth and Armstrong. Jay Vee is continuing its celebration sale through April 20 due to the recent bad weather. Shown with the new owners are Michael Carlile (L), store manager and Ward Breithaupt, salesman. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Consumer Credit Observance

MALDEN-ON-HUDSON — Ethical standards in the consumer credit industry continue to be maintained at a very high level throughout the United States, Paul Wiser, president of the Ulster Credit Management Association, claims. He made the statement during the observance of Consumer Credit Week in Ulster County.

Because of the impact of the consumer movement over the last few years, the consumer credit industry has now become one of the most severely regulated segments of American business. And recently-enacted consumer credit laws are being strongly enforced in 1974 by both state and federal authorities, Wiser added. "These laws protect the vast majority of the millions of families who use credit services today rather well, but the greatest safeguard for the average consumer is the fact that businessmen realize the consumer credit agreements must necessarily be a relationship of mutual trust," he said.

For years, through a conscious and a conscientious exercise of a high degree of responsibility, the consumer credit industry was able to operate with scarcely any regulation at all. It almost goes without saying that this would not have been possible if credit granters, credit bureaus and other were not aware of and responsive to the confidential nature of the exchange. "Common sense will tell anyone, even those who may as yet be totally unfamiliar with practices in the consumer credit industry. That business and the end of 1973, American families increased their total indebtedness for consumer installment credit from less than $6 billion to nearly $173 billion. "In observance of Consumer Credit Week, April 21-27, members of the Ulster Credit Management Association wish to thank local citizens for this note of confidence," Wiser added, and urged families to continue to use their credit wisely and to pay promptly. The availability of local credit executives to serve as guest

NEW AT POTTER BROTHERS — You might say Potter Brothers Ski Shops, Inc., Route 28, has a racket going this spring. Potters, introducing a new line of tennis equipment to go along with the excellent ski and bike lines, are now carrying Head, Wilson, Dunlop rackets, tennis balls and many other accessories. And with each racket sold this month and in May the Kingston shop will give the customer a free tennis lesson from Pete Zeeh, regarded as a super pro of the courts. Potters also will have available "demonstrator" rackets of all brands they carry. All of these new tennis items may be seen in the Center Court Room. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

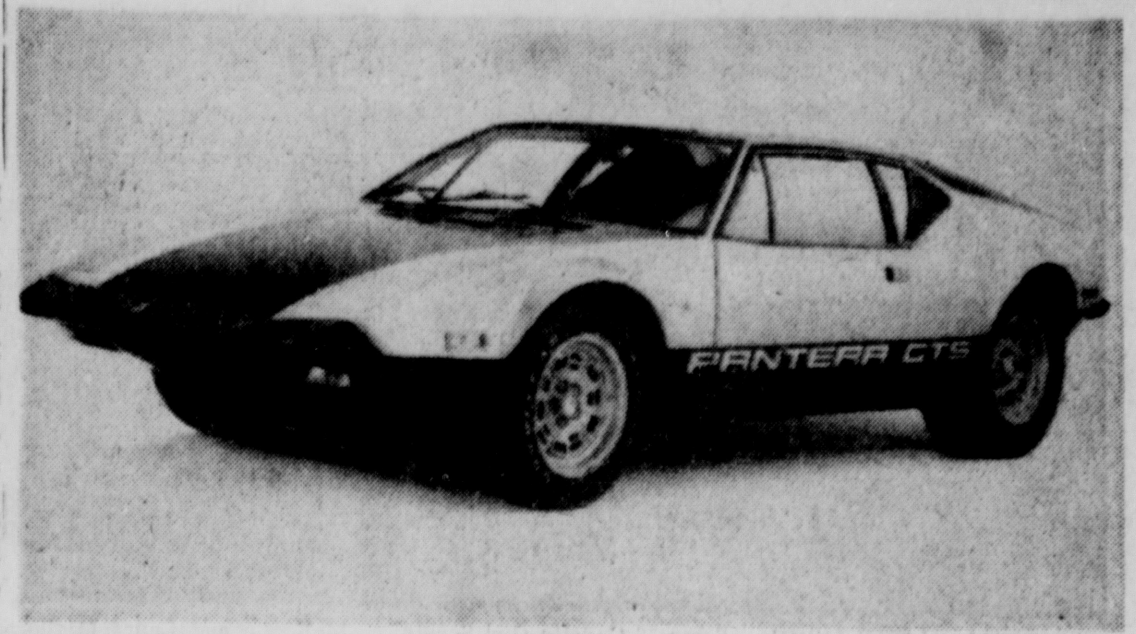

Ridge Homes Display Set for Clintondale

CLINTONDALE tures space for a 26 ft. long three bedroom Southern family room, a den, powder Colonial bi-level home, the room, laundry room and garage Southwood, will be on display from 1 to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 20-21 on Bedell Avenue, near Hull Avenue in Clintondale.

The home is one of 35 different custom built homes being offered locally by John Jeanette, of UR Ridge Homes, Route 44 and 55, Clintondale, local Ridge Homes dealer.

Ridge Homes, a division of Evans Products Company, Portland, Ore., is the largest home manufacturer east of the Mississippi. The company makes in a wide range of styles and ranch, split-level, bi-level, two-story, Cape Cod and vacation homes for sale by more than 200 dealers in 21 states.

Despite the lack of mortgage money in some areas, Ridge has more than 1000 choices of styles, adequate mortgage funds to cover all qualified home buyers. The Southwood bi-level combines the step-saving convenience of a ranch home with all of the extra play, entertaining and storage space of a two-story home. The Southwood features a distinctive architectural flair.

NEW VERSION — The Pantera GTS, a new version of the Pantera L, will be offered for sale beginning in April at selected Lincoln-Mercury dealers. The sports model boasts a 351 cubic-inch V-8 engine, blackout hood and deck lid, flared fender extensions, black exterior molding, sports steering wheel and electric clock. Its manufacturer's suggested retail price is $11,488. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

New Dens Planned in Rifton

Pack 13 of Rifton held its monthly meeting at the Rifton Firehouse with an announcement that a Webelos den would be starting under the leadership of Roger Albers. A new Cub Scout den also is expected to start this month under the leadership of Mrs. Susan Lockwood and Mrs. Linda Forgy.

A demonstration was given by Ms. Karen Koch and Ms. Lorraine Ronk on secret codes and sign language. In connection with the monthly theme, communications, Den 1 visited the New York Telephone Co. and Den 3, under the leadership of Mrs. Susan Ankrum visited WKNY studios.

The April Pack meeting will consist of a boat regatta using sailboats made by the boys. A big date is on tap for April 27 when the members will take a Cub and a big buddy on a fishing trip to Lockwood's Grove near Newburgh.

Darren Playford was the top salesman for the Pack in the seed sale fund-raising project held in March. Top Den sellers were Carl Wheeler for Den 1 and Paul Forgy, Den 3.

Awards at the recent meeting went to Tim Feeney, Darren Playford, Paul Koch and Thomas Severo. Three boys were inducted into the Webelos Den — Thomas Severson Jr., Joel Ronk and William Ferry.

Mike Ankrum is the Pack 13 packmaster, assisted by Frank Lockwood.

854TH ENLISTEE — Bernard Cook (L) of 46 Downs Street is sworn in as an enlistee of the 854th Engineer Battalion (Construction) headquartered in Kingston. Officiating at the swearing in ceremony is Captain Forrest Robinson, commander of D Company in which Cook will serve. Cook, who last served with the U. S. Army in 1953, is employed by New York Trap Rock Corporation. His enlistment resulted from the recruiting campaign of the U. S. Army Reserves designed to attract men between the ages of 18 and 35.

Air Force Happenings

Claude A. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Stone of 375 Springtown Road, New Paltz, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant and has arrived for duty at Hancock Field, Syracuse. Sgt. Stone previously served for 18 months as Kadena Air Force Base in Okinawa where he received a letter of appreciation for outstanding work. Sgt. Stone is a 1971 graduate of New Paltz High School. He entered the USAF in January 1972.

William Schriber Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schriber Sr. of Saugerties, recently enrolled in the U.S. Air Force Delayed Enlistment program. He will enter the air force on a later date and plans to study and work in the mechanical career field.

Brian Hughes, son of Mrs. Frances Hughes of 14 Hewitt Place, also enrolled in the Delayed Enlistment Program with the U.S. Air Force and will begin his training at a later date. Hughes plans to study and work in the medical career field. Sgt. Dan Mambert, local AF representative, is available at the local recruiting station, Broadway and Maiden Lane, to answer questions about this and other USAF programs.

JAMES CAVE

FRED GREHL

Cave Ends Training, Grehl Marine Graduate

Two Ulster County young men have graduated, one from Marine Corps recruit training and the other from an advanced course while serving with the U.S. Marines.

Pfc. James W. Cave III, son of James W. Cave Sr. of Lomontville, completed his recruit training at Parris Island, S.C. While attending a recruit training, he distinguished himself and as a result of his outstanding work was promoted to his present rank.

Pfc. Cave is a graduate of the Rondout Valley High School and also attended Hope College.

before enlisting in the Marine Corps. His father is a former Marine and is a member of the Marine Corps League.

Cpl. Fred Grehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grehl of Woodstock, recently graduated from Aviation Electronics School at Memphis, Tenn. He was promoted to corporal at the conclusion of the school.

The Woodstock Marine is a graduate of Onondaga High School and is married to the former Nena Wright. Cpl. and Mrs. Grehl will reside in Havelock, N.C., where he will become a member of the Second Marine Air Wing at Cherry Point, N.C.

Briefly Around the Corps

Georgette M. Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Walsh of 28 Albion Road, Red Hook, has graduated from Woman Marine recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C. During her eight weeks of training she received instruction in close order drill, water survival, Marine Corps history and tradition, military customs and courtesies and physical training.

James A. Miner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson of Bloomington, was promoted to private first class while serving at the Marine Corps base at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Kevin C. DePuy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Hadley of Route 1, Ellenville, has been promoted to Marine lance corporal. He is serving with the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point, N.C.

James W. Cave III, son of James W. Cave of Route 3, Kingston, has graduated from basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

Ellenville Housing Pact... Step Closer

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE Ground was formally broken for the Federally-sponsored public housing project in Ellenville Jan. 5. The contractor has been working on the project since then, but he still does not have a signed contract with the Ellenville Housing Authority; it's getting closer though.

Gordon Kent, chairman of the housing authority, said Tuesday that he had been informed late last week that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Washington had finally formally approved the contract, worth

$2,005,000. He said it still had to be put into legal form by HUD offices in New York City, but that the formal signing should be only "a couple of weeks" away.

The Ellenville authority was informed some time ago that HUD was going to approve the contract, and word was sent to Ellenville through the office of Congressman Howard W. Robinson (R-27). The delay in the approval is unexplained.

Since the contractor, Jobco of Great Neck, L.I., has not had a signed contract, loans to complete the project have been unavailable according to Kent and Joseph Palermo, Jobco's construction superintendent for the project.

That means Jobco has had to use its own money for the work it has done so far. Kent said that has "had to slow down the project." Palermo would not say the project had been slowed down, but he did say that "progress was not as good" as it would have been with a signed contract.

Of the delay in the contract signing, Kent said, "It puts our fall completion in some type of jeopardy." He said he was still hopeful, though.

Palermo said he was hoping for a fall completion, at least for the senior citizen portion of the project. Interviewed at the family housing portion of the project, he added, "This one won't be far behind."

In addition to the contract delay, the weather has impeded progress. "The weather has been real rough," said Palermo.

Even if the weather gets good and stays that way, there is a further factor which could slow the project up. Palermo said the availability of materials could determine progress, and right now there was a shortage of "everything" in the building trade. He said, however, that material for the Ellenville project had been ordered "months ago," and a stock pile of some of the materials had been made. The Ellenville project is in two parts, 30 units of senior citizen housing at a site between Canal and Center Streets, and 40 units of low-income family housing on a site on Eastwood Avenue.

Kent said it was planned to complete the senior citizen portion of the project first, since that was the more critical need, and the housing authority's office was to be located there.

As emphasis of how critical the housing authority thinks the need for senior citizen housing is, Kent said the authority was looking for a way to put up another 70 to 100 units for seniors. He said he had been in contact with the State Urban Development Corp., and had also looked at the state's Mitchell-Lama plan for public housing, which is similar to that used by HUD in Ellenville.

Asked why Jobco had remained on the job with no contract, Palermo said, "We trusted the village and the village trusted us."

WHITA Explains BOCES Stand

BLOOMINGTON Claiming that Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services has spent an estimated $16,000 to date on "an illegal lease" for well drilling, options, engineering, planning and legal fees for its planned Bloomington facility, WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association) will "test the validity of the lease as well as the law upon which it is based."

WHITA President Alice Tipp, commenting on BOCES Superintendent Dr. Jack L. Roosa's announced plans to seek a "building OK" for the Bloomington site, said that WHITA is "heartily in agreement with the BOCES program of education but feels it must contest and oppose what it calls 'improper and illegal operations of the BOCES administration.'"

Mrs. Tipp explained that: on Jan. 19, 1973, the people voted upon the proposition concerning the cost of $7.5 million at Bloomington, which was defeated by 10,800 votes to 2,100, or about 7 to 2.

The local BOCES administration seeks to circumvent the voice and vote of the people. They advertised for bids for a building upon part of the same site at Bloomington. By admission of BOCES administration, no architect or engineer was employed by BOCES. All bids were rejected, and negotiations were entered into by BOCES with Shults Development Corp. for a rental. The agreement signed by local BOCES with Shults Development Corp., had no plans or specifications attached. All that the 13-page lease said that we were to receive was "the Lessor hereby has agreed to undertake the construction of such a building and to lease it to the Lessee, all upon the following terms and conditions." She further stated: Such terms includes BOCES to pay the interest upon the principal of the mortgage of Shults Development Corp., all taxes, light, heat, repairs, custodial and incidental charges that might arise.

The term of the agreement was five years, with an option for five more years. As for BOCES, this is a 10-year lease, with a privilege to cancel after five years and clearly violates the statute. The location of the Bloomington site is very poor. We are opposed to this lease with Shults Development Corp. because it is unfair to the public. The firm of Wilson and Mason Inc., real estate economists, certified by letter of March 29, 1974, that the net gain by Shults Development Corp. on this lease would be $753,000."

Mrs. Tipp concluded: "Even the Department of Education stated in open court in Albany on this past Monday morning that this lease was too expensive and had not been approved by the commissioner of education."

The present BOCES law does not provide for due process in that it does not give notice of hearing upon expenditure. The members of BOCES are not elected by the people. BOCES is not responsive to the people. We want to check the spending of BOCES.

Sec. 310 of the Education Law provides that appeals must go to the commissioner. That makes him the judge as well as the executive officer with the provision "his decision in such appeals, petitions, or proceedings shall be final and conclusive, and not subject to question or review in any place or court whatever."

Eye Screening In Tillson

TILLSON Eye screening for pre-school children ages 3-5 will be held at Tillson Elementary School from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Wednesday, April 24.

The free screening for children of the Rosendale-Tillson area will detect difficulties that otherwise might go unnoticed and will recommend eye examinations where indicated.

The screening, which is not an eye examination, is to detect amblyopia, or "lazy eye," usually the result of one eye learning faster than the other. Unless the disparity is detected and corrected before age six the lazy eye usually never learns to focus as it should. It can be averted frequently if treatment is started early.

The screening is being sponsored by the Ulster County Department of Health with the approval of the Ulster County Medical Society.

'Friends' Reaffirm Position on Mall

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Friends of Historic Kingston have reaffirmed its opposition to the proposed North Front Street Mall, despite verbal assurances by city officials that the project is still not beyond the "exploratory stage."

Jerry Leatherman, chairman of the Shopping Mall Evaluation Committee of the historical group, reported at the Tuesday meeting at Statewide Savings and Loan Association that the committee had drafted a letter to Mayor Francis R. Koenig in opposition to the proposed $15 million project which will stretch from the parking garage to Converse Street and back to Plaza Road.

Leatherman reported that Koenig had responded to a previous letter of opposition from Friends of Historic Kingston with a telephone call when he said no commitments had been made to the project.

Outgoing President E. Robert Johnson quoted the mayor as saying "it's purely an exploratory thing at this stage."

Meanwhile, the developer, National Merritt Inc. of New Rochelle — Arthur Bressman, president of Luckey Platt Inc., a Poughkeepsie-based department store, has been spokesman and has responded to a number of questions posed Feb. 27 by urban renewal officials.

James G. Connors, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, asked for information from Bressman in six areas: population distribution and concentration, distance in driving times, natural and man-made barriers to growth and accessibility, convenience of access to the site, strength of existing retail facilities presently serving all or part of the trade area and the estimated drawing power of the facility at the site.

The proposed developer's six-page response suggests that the "Kingston Fashion Mall" will not be in competition with adjacent shopping areas; rather it will serve as an anchor for the largest retail shopping center between Albany and Poughkeepsie.

The developers also contend, not unexpectedly, that the city would be better off with the shopping mall than without it since the developers reason there's a demand for the mall and if so, someone's going to build it, regardless.

The most crucial question to city officials in general and to downtown merchants in particular hasn't been answered: what effect will the mall have on existing business and the existing tax base?

Friends of Historic Kingston raise the same points. "We want a total exploration of the situation, not only from an historical viewpoint, but business-wise and the ultimate cost to the city for this man to develop there," Johnson said.

Johnson says the "Friends" have received a good deal of support in their opposition to the project, have 200 signatures on petitions now being circulated and expected to have more. The petitions will be submitted to city officials.

Johnson stepped down as president Tuesday night, citing increased work load as executive director of the Catskill Regional TB & RD Association.

Edwin Ford, long associated with historical interests in the city, was elected president. Mrs. Allan Hanstein was elected vice president. Mrs. Avery L. Smith was elected secretary and Paul Scogna was elected treasurer.

Johnson remains as a five-year director along with Leatherman and Ford who were elected directors Tuesday night.

There are about 300 persons listed officially as "Friends of Historic Kingston," about 60 were at the meeting which for the first time was open jointly to both members and directors.

The group reviewed some of its activities and made plans for the future.

Mrs. Ruth Scogna (chairwoman). Mrs. Leatherman, Mrs. Paul Carpenter and Mrs. Smith, with Herbert Cutler as a consultant, were cited for "an excellent job," in compiling the Stockade Survey for the National Historic Trust. It has been approved by the state and Kingston Urban Renewal will be added to the National Agency last year and are Registry sometime this summer, restoring it.

Mrs. Kenneth Davenport was cited for "the enormous amount of work" she and her "numerous volunteers" have done on the restoration of the Kiersted House at John and Green Streets. Friends of Historic Kingston bought the 160-year old building from the Kingston Urban Renewal last year and are restoring it.

Ellenville UR Agency Delays Decision on Market Street

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency again put off a decision on the Market Street Mall, this time "subject to a budget analysis," at its meeting Wednesday night.

The agency reviewed plans for the proposed shopping mall, presented by Agency Engineer Alex Diachishin, and then decided to see if the money Urban Renewal Director Robert Peck said was available was really all they had for the project.

Peck said during the meeting that $70,000 was available. After the meeting he said that was the basic amount the village's Urban Renewal project had to spend for the mall, plus engineering fees and contingency, each of which generally runs 10 per cent of a given construction project. That would put the full figure at around $90,000.

Diachishin said the money the agency had limited the mall to a convertible one. That means the mall would be a shopping mall for part of the year, and a street the rest of it.

The mall, as designated in the village's Urban Renewal Plan, is to be that part of Market Street between Canal and Center Streets. Diachishin proposed a plan with removable barriers and benches, low-mounted lighting, trees, and brick and bluestone sidewalks. He said construction costs for the convertible mall would be about $75-80,000, with a total budget of about $90,000.

The permanent mall would cost about $125-130,000, according to the engineer. He said that was "absolutely, no doubt about it" outside the budget. "To spend the money on a permanent mall would be a mistake," he said.

Diachishin's plan for the mall also includes three small fountains, buried utilities, and no "comfort station," which he said would get vandalized to the point of being a maintenance headache.

Agency Member Stanley Kaplan pointed out "you've still got a street" with the convertible mall. He was for spending another $30,000 for permanent mall and getting "something substantial."

"I really don't think we're getting our value," said Kaplan of the convertible mall proposal. Richard Rothman, proprietor of Richie's stationery store on Market Street, is a foe of convertible malls and has taken the agency to court on the mall issue. He read the Urban Renewal Plan, which specifies what should be in the mall and how much of it, and said it proposed a plan with removable

"We don't have the money to do what you just read," said Peck.

"Then get it," rejoined Rothman.

Rothman also said that the redevelopment on Market Street should be responsible for putting in sidewalks to agency specifications, and sidewalks renamed agency. Each receives a retain-er of $350 per month.

Peck reported condemnation proceedings were continuing on Parcel No. 6, part of the land the Ellenville National Bank will redevelop.

African Studies Conference at Paltz

NEW PALTZ — Throughout the State of New York, the State University College at New Paltz has been selected by the newly-organized New York African Studies Association as the site of the first annual conference. The conference, which will be held Friday and Saturday will bring together individuals and groups interested in Africa from throughout the State of New York. Keynote speaker is Dr. mané Ouattara, ambassador and executive secretary of the Organization of African Unity. Also speaking will be Dr. Donald H. Bragau, chief of the Bureau of Social Studies Education. The New York African Studies Association was formed as a result of the growing number of African books and materials, within the state interested in African food, dance, and workshops on Africa in the world festival, and workshops on Africa organized by community. New Paltz was selected for the initial gathering and the International Teacher of the association because of its early and long interest in international programs and its Third World Culture Living and Learning Center, the Pan-African Study Group, the Kiswahili Group and the African Studies Association.

Also involved in the organization and playing a major role in the conference are the African American Institute and the American Committee on Africa. All persons interested in participating in the conference, meeting Africanists and learning more about Africa have been invited to contact one of the conference chairpersons at New Paltz. They are Mrs. Corinne Nyquist, acting director of the World Study Center of the Sojourner Truth Library, Dr. Thomas Nyquist of the Department of African Studies and Dr. Parbati Sircar of the Department of Geography.

...Area College Theater Festival

NEW PALTZ — Twelve Mid-Hudson Valley area colleges will offer a sampling of theatrical experiences Friday through Sunday at the first annual Area College Theater Festival to be held at the State University College at New Paltz.

The colleges will present various productions and workshops on such topics as ballet, mime, and song. One act plays and excerpts from other plays are also scheduled.

The productions will be offered at three showings, each to be held in the college's McKenna Theatre. The showings are Friday, at 8:30 p.m., and Saturday, at 2 and 9 p.m. There will be no charge for the performances and the general public is invited.

Though the colleges will not be competing with each other, three critics will be on hand to offer their professional observations and suggestions. Vera Roberts, past president of the American Theatre Association, Angus McPherson, president of the Florida College Theatre Conference, and Roger Hill, chairman of the Theatre Department at the State University College at Cortland, will review the performances.

Workshops will be offered by a variety of theatre notables. Among them is Bob Kelly, make-up artist for numerous television shows and Broadway plays, who will demonstrate his talents. Kelly has done make-up for the Metropolitan Opera and is presently head of his own make-up company.

A workshop in basic mime techniques will be presented by Jack and Graciela Hill who were resident artists at SUC New Paltz a few years ago. The two have since become internationally known and have studied with Marcel Marceau, with whom Hill recently completed a film.

The weekend will also include a sound and light show presented by Marc Rubenstein. Rubenstein is the founder of the Pig Light Show Company of Fillmore East fame.

The Theatre Festival will present a theatre piece developed in the course of the weekend by Julie Bovasso, two-time winner of the Obie Award for excellence in Off-Broadway productions.

Workshops in voice, improvisation, audition techniques, and the publicizing and financing college productions will conclude the Festival.

One of the coordinators of the festival, Frank Kraat, assistant professor of theater arts at New Paltz, said that he hopes to see the festival become an annual event. Plans are already in progress for a faculty seminar next year.

The festival is being held this year through the cooperation of Alpha Psi Omega and the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Price and Wage Controls Are Discussion Topics

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Five panelists addressed themselves to the topic of "Consumer Information" Tuesday night at the Holiday Inn. The third in a series of programs presented by the Consumer Services Committee of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce, the panelists represented two government spokesmen, two businessmen and one housewife.

Hazen F. Gale, director of the Food Policy Division of the Office of Food Monitoring at the Cost of Living Council in Washington, D.C., was the principal speaker and gave the most pertinent presentation.

In explaining the work of the CLC, and particularly his own office, Gale felt the best possible job was being done. The old formula of "Supply and Demand" still rules the marketplace, says Gale, for when housewives switched from expensive beef to inexpensive beans, there was an immediate hike in the price of dry beans.

Gale also stated that "businessmen have a difficult time understanding the consumer's point of view," but he also voiced concern about the higher costs of production to "hang on for another six months when things will be getting better."

On the subject of phasing out the CLC, Gale said it was as it should be except that someone should be "monitoring" the situation particularly in the case of supplies. Gale felt that the USDA was late in catching the problem in this country. They could have alleviated the situation by releasing more acreage for production, he said. He also pointed out that government no longer pays farmers for "not producing."

COSTS PASSED ON
Other points outlined by Gale included the fact that CLC has permitted the cost of raw materials to be passed on to the consumer, that concentration on increasing supplies will provide many answers to problems, and that things should be alleviated somewhat this year because a large crop yield is expected. As for the summer of 1974, the CLC spokesman said we could look for meat to remain about the same but that there will be higher prices on sugar, staples, and confectionaries. Gale, who feels government should not be engaged in controls over a long period of time, also stated that wage controls will be lifted by April, 1975.

OTHER PANELISTS
Presenting varying viewpoints also were Gloria Montague, a housewife; Anthony J. Moriello, executive assistant to the State Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets; John Hoey, owner of Orchard Hill Farms in Red Hook; and

Philip Davis, Ulster County Legislator for District 5 and a dairy farmer in Kerhonkson. Orvil Norman was the moderator and the program chairman was Louise Breitung. Mrs. Montague's presentation was on comparison shopping, the use of coupons and screening food ads. She was essentially concerned with coping with an existing situation.

John Hoey, a packer and processor, covered various aspects of costs to his business, the introduction of Japan as a big buying power, and said that investors, buying commodities not stocks these days, are also responsible for price increases.

Moriello of Albany and New Paltz covered the topic of New York State as it stands nationally and internationally in the production of foods, increases in grain prices and how it was reflected on the domestic scene, competition on the international level, bad weather and degree of return to normalcy in agriculture.

Moriello, who sees no return to low food prices, maintains that "food is still the best buy in the United States."

Davis, county legislator and dairy farmer, also emphasized that from 1952-72 consumers have been getting a real buy. "I don't think food prices are too high," he said.

Davis also listed reasons for price hikes in his business which included price of feed, bailing twine, greater demands on the market, higher wages, West Germany and Japan emerging as big buyers of beef, even food stamps.

The county legislator feels also that controls in a free market are very detrimental.

The three-hour program produced a lively question and answer session even though the attendance was minimal.

Consumer Information

THE PANEL for Tuesday night's consumer program in Holiday Inn consisted of (L-R) John Hoey, owner of Orchard Hill Farms, Red Hook; Mrs. Gloria Montague, housewife; Hazen F. Gale, director of Food Policy Division, Office of Food Monitoring at the Cost of Living Council, Washington, D. C.; Orvil Norman, moderator; Anthony J. Moriello, executive assistant to the State Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets; and Philip Davis, Ulster County Legislator, District 5, and dairy farmer. The program was sponsored by the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce, Consumer Services Committee. Louise Breitung was chairman. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Distaff Digest

Women in the Arts
A weekend symposium concerned with Women in the Arts is planned at Bard College for April 19-21. The weekend will begin with panel discussions on Friday evening. Women members of the Bard faculty will lead discussion of women in their work in drama, dance, art, and music.

On Saturday, Debra Dixon will discuss her films, and there will be a series of workshops. Saturday evening will end with a dance. For further information on times and places of events, contact the College's Public Relations Office, Annandale-on-Hudson.

Legion Dance
American Legion Post 1512 will sponsor a dance on Saturday, April 20 at the Legion Hall in Stone Ridge, with music by Tom Filocco and his Music-Makers, from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Refreshments and awards are included in a donation at the door. All proceeds will be given to the American Legion Auxiliary Rehabilitation project. With these funds, the Auxiliary is able to carry on work to benefit the hospitalized veteran. Between 800 and 1,000 thousand veterans from World War I, World War II, Korean and Vietnam Wars will benefit from these funds.

Commander Richard Banks and past Post Commanders serving on the committee, cordially invite the public to attend.

Rummage Sale
A rummage sale, sponsored by United Methodist Women of St. James United Methodist Church, will be held Wednesday, May 8 and Thursday, May 9 at the church, corner of Fair and Pearl Streets. Hours for the sale are Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Garden Lecture
Mrs. H. Henry Staley of Rhinebeck opened her Spring lecture season with a demonstration for the Garden Club of Ardsley on Tuesday, April 9 in the Community Room of the Ardsley Methodist Church. Mrs. Staley designed exhibits interpretive of the flower show entitled, "The Designer-The Magazine Scene," to be held in May by the Club. The magazines to be interpreted are The National Gardener, Mademoiselle, Ms., New Times, Popular Mechanics, House Beautiful, Holiday and Gourmet. Readers Digest was chosen for the novice class. Mrs. Staley stressed the symbolism of line, color, texture and plant material to achieve significant interpretation.

Women's Coalition
The Hudson Valley Women's Coalition — a group of feminists from the Hudson Valley area, is meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the home of Dr. Linda Tompkins 81 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, to discuss and plan the opening of a Feminist booth at the 1974 Dutchess County Fair. This year's booth will be the second sponsored by the Coalition. It will offer material and information on vital Women's Liberation issues such as abortion, job discrimination, legislation, consciousness raising, homosexuality, sexism in education and literature, and booklists of feminist literature.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé is Protestant and I am Catholic. How should we settle the matter of which church to be married in? Either way we choose, my parents or his parents will be hurt.

Rita
Dear Rita: Here are two suggestions that may help. If you priest approves (and in some areas this is a problem) consider a house wedding. They can be lovely and are often a better compromise than choosing one church or the other.

Another possibility is to do what our son did at his marriage. (He is Protestant and his bride is Catholic.) They were married in the Episcopal church. The Episcopal minister was present and assisted with the service, but the actual ceremony was performed by her own Catholic priest.

Do discuss the situation with both clergymen involved and see if there isn't some sort of compromise that will satisfy everyone. Fortunately in these days of ecumenical cooperation, the problem is less imposing than it once was.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether or not it is in good taste to wear a short, pink linen dress to a dinner after six o'clock in a high-class restaurant? I will be going with a group of women and I know many of them will be wearing long gowns. For personal reasons, I want to wear a dress (not long) which I will make myself. Any help as to what is proper will be greatly appreciated.

Patricia Anne
Dear Patricia Anne: There is absolutely no requirement that you wear a long gown, even though the other women are. Actually, short dresses are far more commonly seen than long in all restaurants, even in the evening, so you need not worry at all.

Dear Mrs. Post: May I correct you when you say that a woman wearing a plain gold band on her right hand means she is either divorced or widowed? It could also mean that the woman is a nun, the plain band meaning that she is married to the religious life, namely Christ.

MARGARET
Dear Margaret: Thank you for pointing out my omission. Of course this "reason" should have been included, especially now, when so many orders no longer wear recognizable habits.

Lefooters Graduation Ball Slated on Friday

The Lefooters Western Square Dance will hold graduation ceremonies for the club's 11th workshop Friday night, April 19th, at their regular weekly dance. The festivities will begin promptly at 8 p.m. and will be held in Municipal Auditorium on Broadway, Kingston. Calling at this special dance will be club caller and workshop instructor, Cliff Brodeur of Pittsfield, Massachusetts.

This year, 28 new couples will be joining the Lefooters, graduating from what was a very enthusiastic workshop. The class began on September 11, 1973 at the club's annual Fun Night and proceeded for thirty weekly square dance lessons under the expert tutelage of caller, Cliff Brodeur. Helping Cliff were a cadre of regular Lefooters, known as "Angels," under the leadership of co-headangels Mary and Bob Greene of Hurley and Jean and Frank Steltz of Flatbush.

The Lefooters Graduation Dance is an open dance with all class level and teen club dancers invited to attend to help make the evening a memorable one for the new Lefooters, Class of 1974.

Don't Call 'The Other Woman'...Get Help!

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which I have discussed with my married daughter, and she said I should write to you.

After many years of marriage, my husband has been seeing another woman. She's a young school teacher he met at church. (Her father is a minister.) The worst part of it is, I know he really does love her, but I'm afraid of what people would think if I let him go to her.

I admit that our marital relations have never been enjoyable for me, but I have done my duty and given him three children who are grown and married now.

I work full time, which my husband never liked, but it has provided us with lots of extras we wouldn't have been able to get as soon as we did.

Should I call this young woman and tell her I know the truth and she'd better stop seeing my husband or else? Should I call her father and tell him about it? Or should I keep quiet and hope they get tired of each other before too many people know about it?

DEAR TROUBLED: Don't call the young woman. And don't call her father. You and your husband should get some counseling and level with each other.

If you don't let him go to her (knowing that he really loves her) because you are afraid of what people would think, that's a poor reason. Add that to your feeling that you've done your "duty" and given him three children, and the picture becomes even more clear. You seem to be a reasonable woman. Counseling is the only answer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been arguing over a question that we would like you to settle for us.

I say it is bad manners to yawn in company, but if you can't help yourself, you should do it with your mouth closed.

My husband says he only yawns when he can't hold it back, and he can't yawn with his mouth closed.

Please give us your opinion. Thanks.

DEAR MRS. B: Yawning with one's mouth closed isn't easy. However it can be done, but a squelched yawn offers very little satisfaction.

The ideal solution would be to go ahead and yawn, but cover your mouth with your hand. And apologize for it afterwards.

DEAR ABBY: In trying to decide what to give my son and his bride for a wedding gift, I have come to the conclusion that the best gift I could give them would be the treatment at a "stop smoking" clinic.

The treatment costs $350 per person, so I feel that it would be a generous gift, considering my relatively low income. My son has been warned by his doctor that he should stop smoking, and he has indicated that he would like to. However, there wouldn't be much point in giving him the treatment unless his bride takes it, too.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper for me to offer such a gift or would I be considered meddling?

DEAR CONCERNED: I don't agree that there wouldn't be much point in giving your son the treatment unless his bride agreed to take it, too. However, unless you know for certain that they both want the treatment and would welcome it as a wedding gift from you, it might not be appreciated.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If we all followed your laundering instructions, we'd never end up with wrinkled knits, but... anyway, I have several ancient double knits, which now always come out wrinkled.

Even steam ironing doesn't help — but, ironing with a pressing cloth, wrung out in a solution of half fabric softener and half water, works wonders for me.

This process must be repeated each time those knits are laundered.

Juanita Jones
My instructions from the National Institutes, which have been in this column before, were to rinse every second or third time in fabric softener.

Are you a woman of the World? Then French cuisine, with its elegant, inspired creations of great chefs, must be the land of your dreams! If for the time being you must settle for a place nearer home, make the best of things by mastering this luscious variation of classic French dishes, Quiche De La Queen.

Quiche De La Queen

CORN MEAL CRUST

One-half cup Quaker or Aunt Jemima Enriched Corn Meal

Three-fourths cup sifted all-purpose flour

One-half teaspoon salt

One-eighth teaspoon pepper

One-third cup shortening, soft

4 to 5 tablespoons cold water

FILLING
Six slices American Cheese
One 16-oz. can whole kernel corn, well drained
Five eggs
Three-fourths cup light cream or half and half
One teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon cayenne

For crust, sift together corn meal, flour, salt and pepper. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add water, one tablespoon at a time, stirring lightly until mixture will form a ball. Turn onto lightly floured board or canvas and roll dough to 13-inch circle; fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Fold edge under; flute.

Lay slices of cheese on bottom of unbaked pie shell. Spread corn over cheese. In bowl, combine eggs, cream, salt and cayenne. Beat with rotary beater until frothy and well blended. Pour over corn. Place on bottom rack of oven.

Bake in preheated very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 25 to 30 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before cutting and serving. Makes six servings.

ANTS — HOW TO CONTROL THEM

We have had quite a number of calls for help in getting rid of ants this spring — here is some information that should do the trick, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

The first step in controlling ants is to find their nest, if possible. When ants are in the house, make note of what surfaces they crawl over as they move through the house. This will determine whether or not the nest is actually in the house, or outside.

Next, apply an insecticide to the nest. If you followed the trail back to a baseboard or door frame, more than likely the nest is still some distance away. Apply a long-lasting insecticide (one containing chlordane, Bayon or diazinon are recommended, and no permit is needed for household use) to the surfaces along which they travel and as close to where you think the nest is as possible. Put it into any cracks or opening that ants can use to enter a room, especially window and door frames. By using a small paint brush you can get the liquid insecticide exactly where you want it. This method is considered especially desirable in the kitchen. Do not treat entire walls or floors, limit it to places frequented by ants. If ants continue to appear after a treatment, they are probably entering over surfaces not sprayed.

When you cannot treat nests directly, you must wait for the ants to crawl over the insecticide deposit.

How Many Picks Can ABA Sign?

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association, armed with nearly 200 draftees—including high school sensation Moses Malone and 50 from the rival National Basketball Association—today sets out in its quest to become what Commissioner Mike Stoen calls "the best basketball league possible."

The ABA has amassed its formidable group of draftees over the last 15 months, with most of its selections being made Wednesday. They included the 50 from the NBA in an unprecedented and open declaration of warfare, 79 collegians and the brilliant Malone, who averaged 35.8 points and 25 rebounds during the 1973-74 season in leading Petersburg, Va., H.S. to its second straight state championship.

Twenty other college players were selected in a secret draft last month, and 43 others are holdovers from three separate drafts conducted last year, beginning in January, 1973.

Each group contains some highly intriguing prospects, and now the ABA will begin unloos-ing its purse strings in efforts to sign them.

Perhaps the most intriguing is Malone. The dynamic 6-foot-11, 210-pound teenager has been swamped with various college offers. But when the Utah Stars surprisingly picked him Wednesday, it marked the first concrete move by the pros to lure him. Previously, the Virginia Squires had only talked to him.

Bob Kilbourne, Petersburg High's athletic director, said he feels Malone should go to college first: "I can't predict what he will do, but I believe up to now his thoughts have been going to college."

Arnie Ferrin, the Stars' general manager, said that Larry Cregar, the club's director of player personnel and assistant coach, would go to Virginia today and discuss the situation with Malone and his family.

"If we find out that his parents don't want him to turn pro yet," said Ferrin, "we won't pressure them."

The Stars, however, would lose the rights to Malone—under a new ABA rule—if they don't sign him by September, and he would become eligible for the draft again next year.

But that's not the case with such All-Americans as Bill Walton of UCLA. David Thompson of North Carolina State, Marvin Barnes of Providence and John Shumate of Notre Dame—all of whom were drafted as under-graduates last year, but have not yet signed.

The 6-11 Walton, a three-time All-American and two-time Player of the Year, still belongs to the San Diego Conquistadors. Thompson, this season's Player of the Year, is the property of the Memphis Tams. Barnes belongs to the Denver Rockets and Shumate to Virginia.

Walton, Barnes and Shumate all are seniors. The ABA now will only have clear access to them until next month when the NBA holds its draft of college players. The Portland Trail Blazers, who won a coin flip with Philadelphia for the NBA's No. 1 pick, already have announced they will select the much heralded and highly coveted Walton. Whether he is signed by San Diego or Portland, the price is expected to be extremely high.

Dr. Leonard Bloom, San Diego's owner, said Wednesday he has discussed Walton's possibilities with him and his two attorneys. "But active negotiations" will not take place until next month when the UCLA star returns from his current trip to Mexico.

Thompson, meanwhile, is only a junior and the only way he could be picked by an NBA team in next month's draft is if he applies for hardship and is accepted. He also is expected to command a lucrative contract.

Another undergraduate selected by the ABA was sophomore Larry Fogle of Canisius, the 1973-74 national collegiate scoring champion with a 33.4

per game average—and, he too, wants a big contract.

"I'd have to be offered $1 million before I'd even consider going to the pros," said Fogle, who was drafted by the Denver

Rockets.

The ABA not only will be concentrating on signing the 142

collegians and one high school star it has under its draft wing,

but also will be trying to entice the 50 NBA players it picked.

Among them were 1973-74

Boston and Atlanta's Pete Mar-

'A Publicity Stunt'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many representatives of the National Basketball Association are labeling Tuesday's draft of NBA players a publicity stunt which will yield few new results.

"The draft is a move by the ABA that I think has been planted by what the World Football League has done: the great amount of publicity they have got," said Atlanta General Manager Pat Williams.

"They are having trouble getting through their season. I would say primarily it's a publicity move and one they are using just to keep some semblance of hope live for their league."

The ABA drafted 50 NBA players prior to their regular collegiate draft, each team taking five players.

The first player drafted was 6-foot-8 center Bob Kauffman of the Buffalo Braves.

"We're not too worried," said a spokesman for the Braves, who also had Bob McAdoo and Gar Heard chosen from their ranks. "The Braves have never lost a player to the ABA yet, either in the college drafts or from jumping leagues."

"You're talking about players who are still tied to this club for several years yet and they're already getting good bucks. It appears the ABA didn't do its homework, at least as far as our players are concerned."

Red Auerbach, the Boston Celtics' president and general manager, lit up a big cigar, which has been his trademark before commenting on the ABA's tapping of four of his players including star center Dave Cowens.

"It doesn't bother me a bit," said Auerbach. "They're all under contract."

Larry Fleisher, the NBA's general counsel, expressed surprise at some of the ABA picks.

"I can't understand them drafting (Dave) DeBusschere and Lenny Wilkens, who will be 112 years old by the time he's able to play for the ABA. Either they were not serious about drafting NBA players or they were stupid."

ABA Commissioner Mike Stoen was also skeptical of Memphis' selection of DeBusschere, who has already signed a long-term contract to be general manager of the ABA's New York Nets and Wilkens, who has two more years and an option year remaining on his contract with the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"Maybe that's why Memphis finished in last place," said Stoen.

Joe Axelson, president of the NBA's Kansas City-Omaha Kings was upset, but for a different reason.

"I'm insulted," he said after learning that the Kings, who had no players available, had none drafted in the ABA draft.

Rangers Can Clinch

NEW YORK (UPI) — On the final day of the regular season, when the Canadiens were in town for a meaningless game, Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal was asked if his club's recent dominance over the Rangers would have any bearing on their forthcoming playoff series.

"It's a whole new season," said hockey's most dangerous skater, "and I don't mean just in the conventional sense of both teams starting even. It also means a chance for guys who hadn't done so well during the season to make up for a whole year and become heroes."

The Montreal Roadrunner is proving just as good a prophet as he is a goal scorer. For when the Rangers return home tonight with a chance to wrap up their Stanley Cup quarterfinal series, they'll have one man in particular to thank for their dominant position.

He is Ron Harris, the most unlikely of heroes the New Yorkers could have unleashed from their bench. A spare defenseman, he hardly saw any game action at all in the first three contests.

But with the Rangers trailing two games to one, Coach Emile Francis decided he had to do something to shake up the team. He resorted to a drastic move, inserting Harris at right wing to start the game.

"Harry's idea of how to play a game is to go out and make things happen," Francis explained later. "He only knows how to skate in a straight line and when he comes to someone, he won't take a detour. He'll just go right through the guy."

"Ron Harris is an inspiration to all hockey players—especially those with limited talent or ability. He kept himself physically and mentally in shape all season and when we needed him he was ready."

The 31-year-old utilityman, who's had three knee operations during his career and who scored only two goals all season, made things happen from the start. He scored the Rangers' first goal in the opening period and then was on the ice for two more goals as New York evened the series with a 6-4 victory.

Then on Tuesday night, Harris equalled his entire season's goal output in the playoffs by scoring in overtime to give New York a 3-2 triumph and a 3-2 advantage in the best-of-seven series.

"I told my wife earlier in the day that if there was an overtime period I was going to score the winning goal," Harris said after the game. "But I don't think she believed me."

Harris, soft-spoken and gentle off the ice, has the perfect mental makeup to serve as a utility player. He'll do anything the coach asks of him, without complaint, even if it is a distasteful task.

A month or so ago, when the Rangers were taking a physical beating from Philadelphia, Harris was sent out with explicit instructions to "get" Bob Kelly. Just 10 seconds after Harris stepped on the ice, the job was done.

"I just like to play," said Harris. "It's very hard to sit on the bench and not get in the game. But the coach knows what he's doing."

Another unexpected hero for the Rangers has been Bruce MacGregor, who has notched five goals while doing a superb defensive job on Cournoyer. For the Canadiens, the big surprises have been Steve Shutt with four goals and rookie goaltender Bunny Laroque.

But some of the big Montreal guns have been misfiring. Jacques Lemaire is without a goal and Frank Mahovlich has only one.

If a seventh game is necessary, it will be played at Montreal Saturday night.

The Boston Bruins host the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in the first game of the Stanley Cup semi-final round. Both teams had fairly easy passage into the semis. Boston wiped out Toronto in four games in their opening set and the Hawks disposed of Los Angeles in five.

Boston, after sitting around since Sunday, is happy about returning to action tonight.

"If we had to wait around until maybe Sunday, it wouldn't have been good," said the Bruins' Ken Hodge. "After a while you worry about losing momentum."

"We want to play Thursday night," added Coach Bep Guidolin. "If we had to wait until Sunday to play, it would have been too long a layoff for the guys."

Phil Esposito, the league's leading scorer, was reported okay after a bout with the flu, which also hit Bobby Orr.

Phil's brother, Tony, probably will be the key to Chicago's chances. The Hawk goalie allowed Los Angeles only two goals in the four games they clinched in the opening round.

It's Yaz the Musclemen

VICTIM — St. Louis shortstop Mike Tyson sits in his Philadelphia hotel room after being questioned by police concerning his being robbed and then bound and gagged in his room Wednesday. Police say they have several suspects in custody. There were no injuries reported and less than $100 and credit cards were stolen. (UPI)

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's with Yaz, the Musclemen? Carl Yastrzemski has been on a body building kick and it's paying off at the home run barrier.

Yastrzemski whacked his fourth homer of the season leading off the seventh inning Wednesday and it not only spoiled Pat Dobson's bid for a no-hitter, but started the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Yaz didn't get his fourth home run last year until May 13.

"The last few years I've had trouble with my hands at the start of the season, but everything was perfect this spring. There's a quickness in my hitting and the ball is going for distance."

Yastrzemski is a man with a purpose these days. For years, he was the unofficial team captain, but this spring Manager Darrell Johnson officially appointed him team leader.

Dobson had faced 21 batters in six hitless innings with just a trace of wildness that resulted in three walks over that span.

Just about the time "I was thinking no hitter," Yastrzemski belted a slider into the first deck of Shea Stadium about 30 feet fair inside the right field foul pole.

"The way I hit the ball it could have gone 500 feet in another ball park," Yaz grinned. "But the wind currents are tricky at Shea and it sank fast."

Several balls the Yankees hit to the outfield also appeared held up by the wind and there was no damage as Bill Lee posted his second win of the season on a five-hitter.

Errors plagued Lee in the second and ninth innings when the Yankees scored their runs. Lee committed the first miscue when he fired a potential double play ball to second without either of the defending Keystone fielders at the bag, allowing the first New York run to score. The second run of the inning came around on shortstop Mario Guerrero's wild throw to first trying to complete a DP.

Yastrzemski figured in both the two-run Red Sox rallies. His single in the eighth inning sent Bernie Carbo to third, from where the Boston outfielder scored the team's fourth run.

Commenting on Dobson's no-hit bid, Lee said the Yankee hurler "had to be aware that Yaz could break it up. There's was no doubt that it was over once Carl connected."

Lee said that some team ought to file a grievance over the height of the pitcher's mound at Shea Stadium because it favors fireballers.

"I'd love to pitch here all year. I'd throw a lot of strikes. The mound at Fenway Park is almost level with the rest of the field."

In other American League games Wednesday, the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, in 16 innings; Baltimore beat Detroit, 6-1; Texas defeated Kansas City, 4-2; Chicago turned back Oakland, 5-3; and California trimmed the Minnesota Twins, 5-3.

Gaylord Perry worked 15 innings for Cleveland before finally yielding to reliever Ken Sanders against whom the Brewers won the game on a Bobby Coluccio home run in the 16th. Coluccio earlier had broken up Perry's no-hit bid with a single in the sixth.

Baltimore jumped on Woddie Fryman for five runs in the first inning and Jim Palmer fired a five-hitter to lead the Orioles to victory over Detroit.

Jeff Burroughs' tie-breaking double in a three-run eighth inning carried Texas over Kansas City.

UCAL's Division III — Tough Baseball Circuit

KINGSTON I feel this year we have the power and personnel to win it for the claim that Division III of the Ulster County Athletic League will be the toughest around this baseball season.

Comorised of Red Hook, Coleman, Onteora, and Rondout Valley, the division, one of three in the league's new alignment, figures to produce three solid contenders and a fourth sleeper team. What's more, the experts are saying that the Division III champ will go on to win the UCAL playoffs.

If that's so, then Coleman coach Wayne Reynolds makes no bones about his predicted outcome.

"We have improved our hitting and defense each year

"We should have been 9-4 last season," he offered. "We were ahead in three of the seven that we lost, but we just fell apart in the late innings. We have improved our hitting and defense this year."

Coleman returns all its regulars with the exception of all-league outfielder Edgie Mathieu. That means the Statesmen will have that fine pitching staff back headed by junior Kevin Coughlin, who throws at a 10-strikeout a game pace. Control hurler Chris Bentley, hard-throwing John Stote, John Bouck, and depth, and most of all the Phil Timbrouck also expect to see mound action.

The catcher is dependable all league choice Vinnie Schell, who division similarly could be trouble, but he adds, "All of them are going to have to beat Coleman."

Mallanda says his Red Hook team can repeat as a division title winner "if we gel." The Raider coach says depth at every position makes this team nearly as good as last year's, even though such fine players as pitchers Randy Fister, Ron Canisasca and infielders Timmy Cunningham and Terry Thayer have graduated.

"We have some junior varsity players coming up from a team that was 17-1. We are young, but this is a good group of kids."

If the season was to start tomorrow instead of Monday,

Twenty Seven File for County Amateur

KINGSTON Twenty seven of the 30 golfers exempt from all qualifying, including defending champion Rick Barthel, filed entries for the 24th Ulster County Amateur Championship before Monday's deadline.

Harvey Bostic, the newly-appointed Wiltwyck Golf Club professional, will be the most notable absentee when the field tees off Saturday, June 15, at Sawyerkill Country Club at Form Coughlin, ex-Twaalfskill Saugerties. Bostic won four titles, all since 1965, before turning professional this year.

Doug Tatar, another exempt player will be in California at the time of the tournament, and

Deadline for filing entries is May 6.

Applicants who do not have a club affiliation must be certified by the tournament committee. Twenty one qualifying spots will be at stake in the 18-hole competition at Locust Tree.

Joining Barthel in the 72-hole tournament will be former champions Leon Randall and Bill Van Aken of Wiltwyck and George Hughes of Twaalfskill.

Sawyers and Maroons Win

SAUGERTIES High put on a 12-run stampede in the third inning here Wednesday, walloped visiting Roosevelt, 13-5, and moved all alone into first place in the DCSL baseball race with its second win of the young season.

The Sawyers jumped in front of the pack because the other first game winners dropped their second games. John Jay fell to Beacon, 7-4, and Ketchikan lost to Arlington, 5-4. Kingston moved up by stomping Lourdes, 8-3.

In non-league scholastic results, Newburgh defeated Poughkeepsie, 9-6. Valley Central whipped Marlboro, 9-3, and Minisk Valley swept a double-header from Pine Bush, 10-1 and 7-1.

Saugerties was fortunate to trail the Presidents by only two runs when the third inning began. Roosevelt had packed three hits, a hit batsman and two walks into the first inning, but key defensive plays by the Sawyers kept the damage to a minimum.

In the home third, Saugerties sent 16 men to the plate and on three separate occasions man-

Two more Maroon runs came in on an error by shortstop Mike Laffin.

Decker needed an inning of scoreless relief from Paul Lawatch, but got the win on a six-strikeout, two-walk performance in which he only gave up four hits.

Kingston's first run came on three Kutz walks and a Lourdes error, and the second score resulted from two bases on balls and an RBI single by Duane Carey.

Walker Found Destitute; Renowned 'Toy Bulldog'

NEW YORK (AP) — Known as the best pound-for-pound fighter of the 1920s, Mickey Walker earned more than $3 million during a boxing career that led to the welterweight and middleweight world titles.

Walker, 72, nicknamed the "Toy Bulldog" while scoring 58 knockouts and winning 93 bouts, has been hospitalized due to amnesia, acute anemia and advanced Parkinson's Disease.

The former champ, ailing and broke, was found unconscious in the early morning darkness April 9 on a street corner in Brooklyn's Flatbush neighborhood.

Walker won the welterweight title at the age of 21 and gained the middleweight crown five years later. After 148 career fights, he retired in 1935 following a futile come-back as a heavyweight.

Walker, who had three boxing managers, gained a reputation as a hard-drinking carouser unable to hang on to his winnings.

"My managers got a lot of it, my wives got a lot of it, they all got a lot of it, except me," said Walker at Jewish Memorial Hospital while undergoing medical treatment.

Executive director of the hospital, Charles Gellman, is a former boxer and has known Walker for 40 years.

He said Walker had been living in a rooming house in Elizabeth, N.J., collecting Social Security checks from the federal government and contributions from groups of veteran boxers.

"I'm going to see if I can find a place where he can be treated with dignity and respect," said Gellman, who said he would try to place the former champion in a rest home.

Gellman added: "Mickey should be made to feel like Mickey Walker used to feel—not like a bum."

Sport Club Opens Drills

KINGSTON Kingston Sport Club, long time promoter of soccer in the area, would like to see as many area players as possible for their practice session tonight at 6:30 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

Joel Tomson, the KSC public relations man, says the Kickers are seeking to build their next German-American Soccer Association entry around Ulster County talent.

"Soccer is developing nicely in the high schools and the Mid-Hudson Valley League is a big boon," says Tomson. "We hope the younger talent will come out and try out for the team." The Kickers plan to play exhibition

Products Tie

KINGSTON Scrimmage Products converted three free throws in the last seven seconds to edge Smitty's 63-60 and tie the YMCA "B" championship series at 1-1. The third and deciding contest will be played Saturday night.

Stewart's Ice Cream rallied from a 53-45 third quarter deficit to trounce Downs Street Driving School 72-62 and wrap up third place in two straight sets.

Ron Mapes of Scrimmage tied the score 60-60 with a deuce at the seven-second mark. Three crucial foul shots enabled Scrimmage to even the series. First, Jack Abernathy converted a technical and Keith Jones iced the victory with two free throws just before the final buzzer. Smitty's had trailed 48-36 at the end of three quarters, before exploding for 24 points.

Sixteen points seemed to be the magic total, as Jones and Mapes of Scrimmage and Greg Mackey and Teddy VanDyke of Smitty's, all hit that figure.

Mike Kiernan (25) and Rick Scheffel (22) accounted for 47 of the Stewart's total against Downs Street. Adam Stauble led the losers with 16 points.

WARD WEEK SALE

NOW IN PROGRESS

MONTGOMERY WARD

34,000 MILE GUARANTEE

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE
Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:
• defects in material or workmanship,
• normal road hazard failure,
• premature tread wearout (1/32 inches or less remaining),
Montgomery Ward will:
1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorated charge based on mileage used.
Not punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.
For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.
Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return of tire to which returned, including federal excise tax.
Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Your Horoscope

Friday, April 19

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A Gemini (May 21 to June 21) day and evening to cultivate a cheerful and happy attitude of career matters since higher-ups are watching you. Make complicated conditions could develop. Take under advisement any decisions expected of you. Avoid making a serious mistake.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use an objective approach when handling those duties ahead of you. Try to be of assistance to troubled associates. Think logically.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to get your own problems handled wisely without having to depend on others so much. Do something thoughtful for mate tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although present work seems boring and you seek new pastures, it is best to stick to present set-up. Don't be extravagant.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you keep any promises you have made and try to help associates who are having troubles. Don't go on a foolish tangent.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Tactfully try to find out what your true position is with allies.

but don't ask dumb questions. Steer clear of one who opposes you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to argue with a good associate because you are in a bad mood, but don't alienate such a valuable person in your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Instead of expecting others to do so much for you, get busy and do something for them instead. Don't be wasteful with money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show more consideration for those who dwell with you. Think along very pleasant lines. Show others you are loyal to family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care should be used in motion today if you want to avoid a ticklish situation. Don't anger one by making critical remarks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Monetary affairs seem very difficult for you to handle right now. Cut down on those expenses that are too extravagant. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Turn discontent around to cheer and you can accomplish a great deal. Forget all that social nonsense tonight. Plan the future wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she could easily do well in trouble-shooting professions and become a leader in such, so don't try to put knee-pants on your progeny. Make sure your youngster does not cause friction just for the fun of later clearing it up. Direct the education along mental lines instead of the manual.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SMOKE SWATS: (Q.) I have been smoking for a long time. My mother has been trying to get me to quit. Every time she has caught me at it she has grounded me for three days.

But last week she caught me and beat me with a stick. I'm 16 and too big for that.

How can I convince her I'm not doing anything bad?—Bruised in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You can't convince ME that you aren't doing anything bad, so I can't tell you how to convince your mother that you aren't.

I think smoking is bad for you and that you should stop. I agree that your mother shouldn't beat you. But you know how to stop that. Stop smoking.

NEXT STEP: (Q.) Tim and I are both 18 and we both work at the same place. He doesn't have a girl friend and I don't have a boyfriend.

We talk to each other and have a few things in common, like swimming, tennis, baseball, music and history.

How can I tell him that I like him? Because I do!—Very Much in Maine.

(A.) Invite him to call you on the telephone.

Or invite him to visit you at home some Saturday or Sunday when you know your parents will be at home.

Nixon Pledges Move to Ease Latin Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has pledged efforts to lower U.S. trade barriers with Latin America and said he will encourage American private investment in the region.

Serving as host for 24 Latin American foreign ministers at a White House dinner Wednesday night, Nixon listed trade and private investment as two essential ingredients for overcoming Latin America's development problems.

On private investment, one of the most sensitive areas in inter-American relations, Nixon said, "we recognize that each government has the sovereign right to determine the rules for investors in its country, but we also believe that private investment is the richest potential source of technology, capital and organizational skills the developing world needs." The ministers dined with Nixon after spending the afternoon in private, informal consultations with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. The meeting is a prelude to the annual meeting of the Organization of American States General Assembly, scheduled to begin Friday in Atlanta. Diplomats reported the meetings with Kissinger, which wind up here today, were extremely cordial. According to U.S. officials, Kissinger suggested that Latin American grievances over U.S. private investment might be alleviated if the hemisphere nations established ground rules governing foreign investors. One discordant note in the conversations was a unanimous expression of support by the Latin Americans for Panama's demand to gain control over the Panama Canal Zone. But their apprehensions were directed mostly at a Senate resolution with 35 sponsors calling for "continued undiluted U.S. sovereignty and jurisdiction over the Canal Zone." U.S. officials said Kissinger pledged he will persist in efforts to draft a new treaty with Panama conferring eventual control over the zone to that country. Throughout the discussion, there was no mention of the U.S.-supported hemispheric embargo of Cuba although Argentina was expected to raise that issue during today's final round of consultations.

Syria, Israel Continue Clashes

Egypt Warns of Fifth Mideast War

By United Press International
Syrian and Israeli troops fought on snow-capped Mt. Hermon and the rocky battlefields below today despite Egyptian warnings the daily Golan Heights clashes could lead to a fifth Middle East war. On the diplomatic front,

Soviet experts in London said the Kremlin appeared to be trying to torpedo U.S. attempts to separate the opposing armies along the tense Golan Heights truce lines. Syria said the latest fighting broke out across all sectors of the Golan Heights today, the 38th consecutive day of clashes on the northern front. The Syrian command said its troops went into action before dawn after the Israelis opened fire with tanks and artillery. In Cairo, news reports quoted War Minister Ahmed Ismail today as saying Egypt would join in if the Golan Heights fighting gets worse. "What is going on now on the Syrian front is a war of attrition," Ismail said. "If it develops into serious fighting or if the situation becomes critical, there is no doubt that we will take part in the fighting." Syrian President Hafez Assad, back from a five-day visit to Moscow, said Wednesday night the Golan Heights fighting would continue until the Israelis pull out of the area. "We will have to continue the struggle, using all methods, until our objective is realized," Assad said in a nationwide radio and television broadcast. "Our objective is just peace."

Syria has insisted on total Israeli withdrawal from the heights, scene of the bitterest fighting since last October's 17-day war, as part of any Middle East peace settlement. The 1973 war was the fourth in the region in 25 years. During Assad's Moscow visit, the Soviet Union promised to strengthen Syria's defenses. Beirut's Al Anwar newspaper said Moscow also agreed privately to intervene directly if needed to "deter Israeli aggressions" against Syria. Soviet affairs experts in London said today the Kremlin appeared to be trying to reassert its influence in Middle East negotiations after taking a back seat to the personal diplomacy of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. The experts said the recent Soviet support of Syria could wreck Kissinger's peace efforts and further strain East-West détente. Military communiques broadcast by Tel Aviv and Damascus said Syrian and Israeli troops fought all day Wednesday on Mt. Hermon and exchanged artillery and tank fire in other parts of the Golan front. Israel reported two of its soldiers killed and three wounded in Wednesday's fighting.

Saigon Denies It Detains Prisoners

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon government denies holding any political prisoners, but well-informed South Vietnamese sources say several thousand of the detainees are languishing in jails. Many political prisoners are non-Communist pawns in a cold-blooded negotiating game between the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and the Viet Cong.

The political prisoner issue has led to many charges, but few facts have come to light. There have been charges of as many as 200,000 political detainees held by Saigon. Officially, the government claims all the detainees — about 5,000 "Communist agents" — have been turned over to the Viet Cong. Officials admit privately, however, to an unspecified number of pro-Communists still in jail.

One source closely involved with political detainees agreed to provide secret information to United Press International on condition he remain unidentified.

The source said South Vietnam's total civil prison population of about 37,000 on March 1 included about 8,500 persons who could be classed as political detainees under a broad classification of "disturbers of the peace." Of these, somewhat more than half are considered actual Communists or Viet Cong agents. About 4,500 have never been formally sentenced. At least 600 are women.

Prisoner exchanges have halted with a breakdown in negotiations, but the source said many prisoners have been kept in jail for possible use in future exchanges.

"It is sort of like an account in a bank," he said. "You want to keep money on hand for things that may come up."

The source gave this description of the political detainee situation: In addition to actual Communists or sympathizers, prisoners include persons who have been caught with anti-government literature or activists "going against the currents of the government."

Some prisoners seized under the U.S.-sponsored Phoenix program, started to eradicate the Viet Cong leadership, were victims of mistaken arrests or personal grudges on the part of officials or informants.

Others were ordinary people who cooperated in such ways as buying rice for Communists, either because they needed money or feared reprisals against families in Viet Cong controlled areas.

A detailed breakdown of detainees shows most are held in four national prisons. Con Son, a maximum security institution on an island off the southern coast, has the biggest number.

Chi Hoa prison in Saigon holds a number of politically sensitive cases. Tan Hiep prison on the outskirts of Bien Hoa, about 20 miles from the capital, is an almost exclusively political jail with many hardcore Communist inmates. The fourth, Thu Duc, is a women's prison.
